Slandering Omnipotence

Excitement in New York State because the State has spent a quarter of a million for radium. One gram of the mysterious substance which sends out its particles at a speed thousands of times greater than the speed of a cannon ball, is now at work fighting cancer in New York.

That tiny particle of radium seems expensive, but it costs less than one first-class cannon. It will destroy millions of deadly enemies, cancer cells, and it supplies its own ammunition. Once you have it, it does its own work indefinitely.

The world would be better off today if it had been content for the last six years to fight cancer, malaria, yellow fever, the various plagues and poverty.

Have you any friend, boastfully pointing out American success in the yacht race and remarking on the superiority of the great and glorious native-born American?

The victorious crew of the American yacht Resolute was made up of the following: Twenty-two Norwegians, seven Swedes and one Dane. That was the whole crew. Tell that also to people who say we ought to stop immigration and keep out "undesirable foreigners."

The Harding crowd announced that a twelve-word slogan is to be used all through the campaign.

Now Mr. White, manager of Candidate Cox, says he has a three-word slogan, very secret as yet, that will beat any other.

Write out the kind of twelve-word and three-word slogan you would write for your candidate. It is good practice.

An acceptable three-word slogan for Mr. Cox would be "No foreign entanglements." But that probably isn't the one selected.

Senator Harding's management says that his twelve-word slogan will be advertised on bill boards all over the country. Poor advertising. Better use small country newspapers, such as Harding and Cox own, ~~and especially small~~ weekly newspapers. They cost less than bill boards and are worth a thousand times more—the people believe them.

A British clergyman, worse than a feeble copy of Dante, has revelations concerning hell, and tells all about it.

First, he says the Lord rules in hell as in heaven.

Then, repeating what the "spirits" have told him, he describes little children in hell amusing themselves by skinning a lamb alive and enjoying its agony.

If it were true that Omnipotence, with power to prevent it, allowed small children to skin lambs in a region controlled by Omnipotence, how would you express in respectful terms what ought to be done to that particular kind of Omnipotence.

Do you want, for holy or charitable purposes, money in large sums? Be polite to those that have such money.

The Interchurch World Movement wanted, to save souls, hundreds of millions.

It also wanted to know about the big steel strike that collapsed when the men were beaten.

Innocent and pure, the Interchurch World Movement made one fatal mistake. It began collecting information about the steel strike and collecting money at the same time. It published the fact that the strikers were in the right, that half of them now work twelve hours a day and seven days a week, and that they were dishonestly accused of Bolshevism.

The Interchuch World Movement money collection collapsed just as the steel strike had collapsed.

If you want money for churches, go slowly in telling the truth about those that have the money to give you.

Too many strange crimes lately. Too many bodies found in trunks. Too many husbands shooting wives. Too many disappointed ladies shooting other women's husbands.

Major Dalrymple, representing prohibition in the Western States, says: "This is due to the kind of whiskey that criminally inclined persons drink. It drives them crazy."

The alcoholic poisons now made and sold throughout the country are made more dangerous by the fact that juries and judges are too lenient when bootleggers are brought before them. The man who sells poison that causes murder is a murderer, and should be treated as a murderer.

You hear about "self-determination" for little peoples. The little people of Syria determined that they wanted Emir Feisal for ruler. England said, "All right, you can have him." France now has said to that proud Emir, "Get out," and he has got. For the "little" there is no such thing as self-determination. Syria proposes, England or France disposes.

NAME FOUR POLICE IN THEFTS

Captain and Lieutenant in Cambridge Involved in Probe of "Auto Ring"

While city officials of Cambridge and Middlesex County authorities were deadlocked today on the issue of which should take initial action in the auto theft scandal, citizens were confronted with definite charges in the case.

It was announced that evidence sufficient to warrant the arrest of three members of the Cambridge police force and four Cambridge business men was in the possession of the local authorities and that the interests of justice were being hampered by the conflict of opinion as to whether the city or county should prosecute.

SAY HE TOOK "HUSH MONEY."

That a police captain and possibly a fourth member of the Cambridge police department, who is a relative, had been implicated by late disclosures.

That friends of the police lieutenant accused of taking "hush" money from auto thieves and the patrolman whose case may be tried by a police board, claimed they should not be made the "goats."

That if any members of the police department were to be prosecuted the police captain and his relative should be included.

That a fifth business man, reputed

VARDON TIRES UNDER STRAIN

Overgolfed British Champion Has Work Cut Out for Him in Match at Belmont

By ROBERT E. HARLOW

Harry Vardon appeared to be tired out and worn as he trudged over the Country Club of Springfield golf course Wednesday, while a broiling sun beat upon him. He looked as if he never worked harder for his money in his life and it is doubtful if the shower bath and bed ever felt better to him than after the last round was concluded.

Of course Vardon and Ted Ray, his staunch partner, got their match with Milton Reach and Jim Toole, the local amateurs, well in hand, early in the game, and this may have accounted somewhat for Vardon's listlessness. Many in the gallery thought that the famous British player was reacting from too much golf.

The managers of the present Vardon-Ray tour evidently imagined that these two splendid players could

A warrant has already been issued for Leroy who had been masquerading as the slain girl's husband and who is believed to have killed her in a fit of jealousy.

The warrant, which was issued by Judge L. Cotter at the request of Prosecuting Attorney Mathew Bishop includes the names of "O. J. Fernan-

POLICE LOCATE STOLEN AUTO IN 15 MINUTES

The policemen ordered the man to drive to the staiton, where he gave his name as Thomas A. Hill, aged twenty-eight, of No. 55 Cedric street, Jamaica Plain. He was charged with driving a car bearing number plates not issued to him by the Massachusetts Highway Commission. He was bailed out.

PETTIBONE JURY AGAIN ASKS INSTRUCTIONS

BROODED OVER 'DRY' LAW

John Burrows, Whose Business Was Lost, Shoots Self in Jamaica Plain Home

John Burrows, fifty-three years old, committed suicide by shooting himself in the right temple in the bathroom of his home at No. 480 Centre street, Jamaica Plain, today.

He was formerly a liquor dealer, and friends believe his suicide resulted from continual brooding over the destruction of his business by prohibition.

The man gave absolutely no indication of any intention of making away with himself this morning, according to his wife, Mrs. Lucy Burrows.

He went into the bathroom at his usual hour, and had been there some time when a shot was heard.

Patrick J. Buckley, a neighbor, broke down the door and found Burrows' body lying across the edge of the bathtub, with a 38-calibre revolver lying on the floor.

Dr. Leon Newman, of No. 7 Kingsboro park, was summoned, and he in turn summoned Medical Examiner Leary, who pronounced death due to suicide.

DRAG HARBOR FOR GIRL'S BODY

Box Seen by Fishermen May Contain Remains of the Murder Victim

New Bedford, July 29.—Fishermen and police were today dragging the water off Palmer's Island for a mysterious box which it is thought may contain the body of the woman whose right leg was found in a similar box near Fairhaven two days ago.

The box they are seeking was seen by Portuguese fishermen, and when they touched it with a boathook in an attempt to drag it aboard it sank.

The police are absolutely depending on the finding of the rest of the body before beginning any real investigation of what was evidently a murder of exceptional brutality.

Parents of missing girls have been besieging the police station vainly asking for descriptions of the victim, which the authorities are unable to give.

The box which was found off Fairhaven contained the right leg of an apparently tall woman, severed midway between the knee and thigh. It was wrapped in an old newspaper. The box was noticed floating on the water by James McNair, a Fairhaven boy.

Police are today giving particular attention to the disappearance of a New Bedford girl who has not been seen since Monday morning. This girl disappeared from a lying-in hospital in Fairhaven after giving birth to a child. She gave a false name and a false address, but her true name is known to Dr. Napoleon Tessier, her physician, and to the authorities.

Efforts to trace her have been fruitless, and the police believe there is a possibility she may be the victim.

Girls in Durance Jeer New York Governor

New York, July 29.—Governor Smith went to the State Reformatory for Women at Bedford to make personal investigation of the institution where a riot occurred Saturday among the girl inmates.

The Governor had heard many varied stories as to what prompted the girls to create the worst scene the reformatory has known.

The Governor's tour took him into Rebecca Hall, where seventy of the girls who took a leading part in the disturbance are in cells. Under the rules of the new board of managers appointed by the Governor, punishment is forbidden. The Governor tried to reason with the girls.

"Oh, you Al," was the first greeting he heard as he entered the corridor.

"Here's Al, girls; look nice," another shouted.

"How do you like the place?" a third shouted.

The guards pleaded with the girls to be quiet while the Governor of the State was on the grounds.

"What the h— do we care for the Governor," a chorus shouted.

When he had completed his inspection the Governor was asked whether he would make any recommendations to the board.

"You can't make any hard and fast rules in a situation like this," the Governor replied. "I can't make any recommendations offhand. I must have time to think over the matter."

CALL "OLD COLONY EXCHANGE" MEN

Developments today in the get-rich-quick enterprises whch have been attracting the attention and dollars of New Englanders, worrying level-headed and steady-going savings bank folk and arousing the attention of public officials, were these:

1—An auditor selected by District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier began work on the books of Charles Ponzi of No. 27 School street and his Securities Exchange Company.

2—The District Attorney will have nothing to say as to Ponzi and his 50 per cent. in forty-five days scheme until the auditor has completed his work, which will not be for several days.

3—The District Attorney sent a police inspector to the offices of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company in Devonshire street, which also is said to have promised the enticing "50 per cent. in forty-five days," with a request that four trustees of that organization come to Pelletier's office without delay. Pelletier made it plain that there was no connection between the Ponzi and the Old Colony inquries and no similarity between the schemes.

PELLETIER'S STATEMENT.

Regarding the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company, and his call for its trustees to come forward and explain, District Attorney Pelletier said:

"Several men have formed the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company not by incorporation but by making an agreement of trust constituting themselves as trustees, one of the purposes of the trust being to deal in foreign exchange.

"This trust has been capitalized at $1,000,000, in shares of $100 each. I cannot find that any of them have been sold or that the firm has any money in its treasury or any strong financial backing.

"The mere dealing in foreign exchange will not justify them in promising 50 per cent. in 45 days. They are publishing a card which reads:

"'Fifty per cent on your money in 45 days. International Reply Coupons.

Jurors Resume Deliberations After Six Hours Fruitless Debate on Verdict

Manchester, Vt., July 29.—The jury which is deciding the fate of Byron Madison Pettibone for the alleged murder, by poisoning, of his wife, Eva Bond Pettibone, resumed its deliberations today.

Unable to reach a verdict at 10:15 last night, after having the case in their hands six hours, the jurors were allowed to suspend until today.

Before suspending, the jury asked for instructions as to the various degrees of murder and manslaughter. Judge Stanley M. Wilson virtually left but two courses for the jurymen to take. If they follow his instructions as given in his first charge, and again when they asked for further assistance, they must either decide that Pettibone is not guilty or is guilty of murder in the first degree. First degree murder is punishable in this State by death in the electric chair.

Branch of Old Colony Foreign Exchange Company, 26 State street, Room 506, Boston, Mass."

"While the company had an office on the fifth floor of No. 31 State street it has now been removed to No. 54 Devonshire street and the address given is that of Arthur Wilwall, one of the trustees.

"I am giving this statement in order that the public may be fully advised and I trust that the newspapers will send out their best men on this work and not leave it to the imagination of the office force.

"There is a chance to do a great service here and protect the public from temptation.

"I have nothing to say on the Ponzi matter and will not until my auditor has reported, which will not be for several days.

"The auditor begins his work today.

"I have sent for the trustees of the Old Colony Foreign Exchange Co. This investigation is entirely apart from the Ponzi matter and has no connection with it."

Former Judge Frederick H. Chase, counsel for Joseph Daniels, who claims to be a co-partner of Charles Ponzi and entitled to $1,000,000 of the profits made by the latter, filed in the Superior Court an amendment to the original bill brought by Daniels.

In the amendment it is declared that Ponzi is the owner of stock in the J. R. Poole Company, the Napoli Macaroni Manufacturing Company, the C. & R. Construction Company and the Hanover Trust Company, which said shares of stock cannot be reached by attachment, it is alleged, as they are held by persons other than Ponzi, whose names at the present time are unknown to Daniels. It is alleged that these shars are owned by Ponzi and are held by other persons for his use and benefit and subject to his direction and control.

The court is asked to enjoin Ponzi and the defendant corporations from selling, transferring or otherwise disposing of the stock pending a hearing on the bill and a final decree of the court.

Judge Wait has ordered Ponzi to appear on Tuesday next.

Today crowds continued to present their notes for payment, although not in such large numbers as on previous days. Many demanded payment of the principal and a lesser number got both interest and principal, their notes having matured. Despite Ponzi's warning many speculators who offered to buy up the notes at less than their face value were in evidence.

Ponzi, who estimates that his total wealth is $24,000,000, declares that he is waiting for the results of the audit of the Securities Exchange Company's books before continuing the operation of his system in modified form. He plans to open an office in New York.

ALL METAL AIRPLANES IN FLIGHT TO COAST

Central Park, L. I., N. Y., July 29.—Three all-metal airplanes started today for a trans-continental flight to San Francisco. They were accompanied on their start by eleven other planes that later returned. The route to be followed to San Francisco lies over Cleveland, Chicago, Omaha, Cheyenne, Salt Lake City and Reo. It is proposed to gain information that will be utilized in establishing an all air mail route between New York city and San Francisco.

CHANCE FOR A FEW TO SERVE IN GERMANY

The army recruiting station at No. 3 Tremont Row has received a telegram from the War Department stating that a limited number of enlistments will be accepted for service with white American regiments in Germany. With the exception of 967 for infantry and twenty-five for artillery, the men must possess special qualifications, such as cooks, clerks and bakers. Enlistment will be for three years, recruits being sent to Fort Slocum.

On investigation he found a guest rolling on the floor of the hallway, fighting to subdue an alleged burglar. The latter broke away from his would-be captor and was about to escape when the Kentuckian downed him and turned him over to the hotel detectives.

A youth answering to the name of "O. J. Fernandes" has been located at Saltillo, Mexico. His description is said to tally with that of Leroy. The State Department at Washington has been requested by Governor A. E. Sleeper to issue extradition papers for the return of Leroy to the United States and to request his apprehension by the Mexican government.

If Leroy is convicted of the murder of Katherine Jackson Leroy life imprisonment will be the maximum penalty, as the death penalty has been abolished in Michigan.

Relatives Refuse to Claim Trunk Victim

By Universal Service.

Birmingham, Ala., July 29.—Inquiries at Sturgis, Miss., today revealed that relatives of Mrs. Katherine Jackson Leroy will not claim her body, and that they will permit the remains of the victim of New York-Detroit murder mystery to rest in Potter's Field, New York.

It also has been determined that Kid McCoy Jackson, husband of the murdered victim, will not go to New York or Detroit to assist police officials in their work on the trunk mystery.

Allan A. Tatum, Birmingham linotype operator, sought as a material witness in the case by a Detroit detective now here, today declared his intention to fight the plan to take him back to Detroit.

Tatum up until today had expressed a willingness to return to Detroit, but, on advice of friends he has employed an attorney and will oppose the plan to take him away from Birmingham.

Lieutenant J. A. Smith of Detroit, who is here for a conference with Tatum, has wired to his superiors for instructions.

Thousands of costly bales of cotton used in making felting were damaged by water and the entire top floor of the three-story brick structure was damaged by flames. The damage is estimated in the vicinity of $75,000.

WATERTOWN WOMAN HIT BY TRAIN, LEG BROKEN

Miss Jessie McGinnis, thirty-eight years old, of No. 89 Galen street, Watertown, was struck by a train at the Spring street crossing of the Boston & Maine Railroad at Watertown today. She was taken to the police station and treated by Dr. M. J. Kelley, who found a compound fracture of the right leg. She was then taken to the Commonwealth Hospital in Boston. The train was in charge of Conductor C. H. Bingham and Engineer Thomas O'Halloran.

FIND NO POISONING CASES IN DORCHESTER

Investigation by Boston health authorities disclosed no evidences of an "epidemic of ptomaine poisoning," reported to have broken out among children in the neighborhood of Houghton street, Dorchester.

Dr. John A. Ceconi, an inspector for the health department, who examined a number of the children, stated that the "epidemic" consisted merely of a few cases of children's ordinary ailments, none of which could be traced to impure food.

JUDGE'S SON TRIED FOR AUTO THEFT

New York, July 29.—John J. Brady of No. 4346 Park avenue, Bronx, lawyer and a son of the late Supreme Court Justice Brady, was placed on trial in General Sessions charged with grand larceny. He was indicted jointly with James F. Shields and James F. Whelan, who have pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing automobiles.

to be worth more than $300,000, was remotely implicated in that a stolen car was placed in his garage for a short time; but this man enjoyed such a high reputation, the authorities felt he could not have had guilty knowledge of the incident and they eliminated him. The fact that his name was connected in any way with the "auto ring" proved sensational.

CITIZENS DEMAND ACTION.

Cambridge citizens are demanding action today. They say that the scandal has now developed to a stage that will not permit quibbling or delay or dodging.

Mayor Edward W. Quinn said he approved the fullest action and publicity and unceasing pursuit of auto thieves and their confederates. He said if there was real evidence that pointed to members of the Cambridge police force or citizens, the offenders should be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. He insisted that if, on the contrary, the charges against the police were found to be "trumped-up," the public should be informed of that at the very ealiest hour, "in the interest of the good name of the department and the city."

Chief of Police John J. McBride promised to confer at once with Judge Almy in the Third District Court for further advice as to the best course to pursue. It looked today as if the decision would be left to the court.

At a second conference with First Assistant District Attorney George Stanley Harvey, Chief McBride suggested that he had been advised that it would be better to waive warrants and lower court proceedings in the cases and to place the evidence before the special grand jury which will convene on Monday.

Mr. Harvey told Chief McBride, who was accompanied by Chief Inspector Patrick J. Hurley, that the proper course was through the lower courts, in accordance with legal practice, and, that if they were not satisfied with developments along regular channels they would then be at liberty to call upon the District Attorney for grand jury action.

NO ATTEMPT TO "DODGE ISSUE."

Assistant District Attorney Harvey said:

"There has been no attempt on the part of the district attorney's office to dodge the issue or to pass the buck. District Attorney Tufts was asked by Chief McBride to investigate the case of an automobile alleged to have been stolen in Cambridge. He assigned me to the case. I examined the witnesses and made a verbal report to Mayor Quinn and Chief McBride and later gave Chief McBride a typewritten transcript of the evidence.

"When Chief McBride suggested that the cases be presented to the grand jury direct, I felt that this would be an injustice to the accused men. The law says that defendants are entitled to the right of a preliminary hearing in the lower court. All cases, even murder cases, go through such a channel. Only cases with exceptional features, such as extradition or the like, go to the grand jury direct."

CLAIM DILLON INVOLVED.

It was learned today that the charges against the police lieutenant and several Cambridge business men grew out of the theft of a Stearns-Knight automobile from a Cambridge physician more than two years ago. Joseph McKeever and John F. (Chick) Dillon are accused of stealing the car.

Inspectors Sheehan and Cairns of Boston reported that the doctor's car had been turned in for exchange at a Boston dealer's, and the absence of number plates made the Boston officers suspicious. They reported the case to Chief Inspector Hurley of the Cambridge police, who assigned Inspectors Stokes and Mallahan on the case. James J. Hart, a former patrolman on the Boston police force, is alleged to have received this car and is under indictment in Middlesex County with Dillon and McKeever.

It is alleged that the police lieutenant accepted $150 from an alleged auto thief to keep his mouth closed about the deal.

Alleged Auto Thief Wears Overalls to Jail After Arrest

Accused of the theft of an automobile valued at $1,500, Harry Linehard, twenty-five years old, of No. 50 Flint street, Somerville, was arrested at a camp in Billerica while sleeping after a swim.

During his nap someone stole his clothes, and when Boston police inspectors awoke Linehard he was forced to don overalls and a jumper, hastily secured, in order to make his trip to police headquarters.

The stolen automobile, according to the police, is the property of Alex S. Ford of Belmont. The car, the police say, was stolen from a parking space on Charles street on June 21. Since that time, it is alleged, Linehard has been seen driving around in the car.

Wife a Liability, Not Asset, Says Judge

Kansas City, Mo., July 29.—A wife, according to Judge Fleming, is a liability, not an asset. The legal opinion came in the South Municipal Court here a few days ago when the judge undertook to take the assessment of the personal property of Roy Mason, a negro, who had refused to give a valuation to a deputy city assessor.

"Judge," the negro began, "I'se got a $7 watch, a $100 Victrola and a wife—"

"A wife is not an asset," the Court interrupted.

BERKSHIRE CAR MEN REJECT 15 P. C. RAISE

Pittsfield, July 29.—Berkshire street railway operatives voted by an overwhelming majority to reject a wage increase offer of 15 per cent. made by General Manager Clinton Q. Richmond. They had previously turned down an offer of 10 per cent. increase, according to P. J. O'Brien, international trolleymen's representative. The men will now insist upon their original demand of 40 per cent., which means $6.40 a day for eight hours. They now get $4.50 for nine hours. A conference with the management will be held in a few days.

WILSON TO GET COAL FACTS

Secretary of Labor Framing Report on General Situation; Outlook Is Favorable

By International News Service.

Washington, July 29.—Secretary of Labor Wilson was today completing a report on the coal situation for submission to the President.

Meanwhile the hopes of government officials lay in the projected conference of miners and operators suggested by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers. It was the hope of officials that this conference might be arranged and that the labor difficulties in the coal crisis could be eradicated.

The shortage of railroad equipment to handle coal trains is being gradually worked out, according to the Interstate Commerce Commission and it is believed that through priority orders already established the threatened famine of coal in the Northwest and New England can be avoided, if labor produces the coal.

There have been some complaints reaching the commission that railroads were not carrying out priority orders, but officials do not believe these complaints are the basis for any serious worries.

The commission, however, stands ready to lay heavy penalties for violation of the orders if it is found that they are being generally evaded.

Want To Keep Your Hair Perpetually Curly?

Perpetually wavy or curly hair is now within the means of every woman to possess. One need only get a few ounces of plain liquid silmerine from the druggist and apply a little of it occasionally with a clean tooth brush before doing up the hair. When this dries the most beautiful and natural looking waves and creases imaginable are in evidence. Wind and heat do not affect the curliness as where a heated iron has been used.

Liquid silmerine is so pure and harmless there is not the slightest danger of spotting the scalp or streaking the hair, and it leaves no sticky or greasy trace. It will also be appreciated as a beneficial dressing, as it keeps the hair so soft, silky and lustrous.—Advertisement.

Y. D. WAR HERO WEDS FRENCH GIRL HE KNEW BUT 15 MINUTES

COURTEDBY MAIL FOR 2 YEARS

Pretty Angouleme Girl Is Bride of Paul J. St. Jean of Somersworth, N. H.

Somersworth, N. H., July 29.—Blushing like a schoolboy, Paul J. St. Jean, wounded war hero and member of the Yankee Division, today admitted that his marriage to the charming young Mrs. Jean was the result of a fifteen minute courtship at Angouleme, France, in 1918, while on his way to the front.

Uncle Sam's excellent postal facilities and reams of paper were the only other factors which entered into the romance. Although separated for two years the young folks kept up their correspondence, and aided by Cupid, the young war veteran, his wounds healed, went abroad to claim his bride, whose maiden name was Gabrielle Delcichelle. She is now eighteen.

IS LEARNING ENGLISH.

Mrs. St. Jean, who has a cosy little home here at No. 79 Main street, is astonished at Yankee's progressiveness, but she admits that her surprise would be greater if she had not already had a fair sample of it in her young husband's speedy courtship.

She loves America, but hopes to return to La Belle France, some day. She is going to take Paul, too, she says. In the meantime, she is devoting the time not occupied in making Paul souffles or darning his socks to mastering English. Here's how it all happened:

Private Paul J. St. Jean left Somersworth in 1917 with Company G of the 103d Regiment of the Yankee Division for France. He went through every battle from the engagement at Seicheprey to Chateau Thierry, where he was felled with a machine gun bullet in the first American push. Out of the fighting, he was invalided to Camp Hospital 5, near Bordeaux. For over two months he hovered between death and life, and on September 29 left again for the front to join his division.

FUTURE MRS. JEAN SHY.

After a long and wearisome ride the train stopped at Angouleme and here Cupid dealt Paul a far heavier blow than any of the "Jerries" ever had.

A barrage of smiles from three lovely maidens, who were on the platform watching the train pull in found its mark in poor Paul's heart. He spoke to them, the only doughboy on the train who could speak French.

Strangely, two of them engaged in conversation with him, but the future Mrs. Jean hung back. Apparently she was quite satisfied to look at him. Anyway the romance started then, but Paul didn't realize it until later. He took their addresses and when he reached the front corresponded with them when he had an opportunity.

At length Madame Jean wrote a timid little letter in which she failed to say half the things she wanted to. But the Yankee hero wasn't troubled in this respect and he told her just what he thought, and in very good French, too.

Army orders are cruel things to lovers so when the armistice was signed and Paul was ordered home he was unable to see Gabrielle, but of course he wrote and explained everything.

CLAIMS HIS BRIDE.

When he reached New York he took a course in vocational training and divided his time between writing her letters and studying. A year after they met the engagement was announced, although the couple had only seen each other for fifteen minutes and had practically never spoken to each other.

On April 10, of this year, Paul finished his training course. Since his thoughts were in France and he decided to go there. He arrived a month later and they were married on May 17. They came back to New York and on their way to Somersworth stopped off at Boston for a few days, but Mrs. Jean doesn't like the big cities, so they left for his home, where the folks say their courtship about breaks the record for speed.

WHITE STAR LINE WILL REMAIN

Drastic Quarantine Rules That Caused Trouble Here Have Been Removed

All danger of Boston's losing the White Star line steamships plying between this country and Italian ports was removed today.

The drastic quarantine regulations which disgusted crews and passengers and resulted in a threat of the shipping company to transfer its ships to New York have been removed.

This information was contained in a letter from Assistant Surgeon-General Creel of the United States Public Health Service to President George R. Nutter of the Chamber of Commerce.

When the letter was read to Sidney Jackson, local agent of the White Star line, he said it was satisfactory to him. The Canopic, now on the way to America, will dock at Boston instead of New York.

Under the modified regulations only steerage passengers from infected ports will be compelled to take disinfecting baths.

Crews will not be required to undergo the "de-lousing" process which caused trouble aboard the Cretic, of the White Star line, and delayed her sailing by more than a week.

Assistant Surgeon-General Creel in his letter promises that the quarantine regulations will be administered without discrimination at all American ports. He denies any intention on the part of the Public Health Department Service to apply the rules less stringently in New York than in Boston.

The threat to withdraw White Star ships followed the detention of the Cretic and the passive mutiny of her crew, who refused to take the disinfecting baths.

Public health officials here insisted on the baths, as the ship had not a clean bill of health from American doctors in Naples.

Lack of such a bill of health was not due to any epidemic either in Naples or aboard the ship, but to a technical dispute between Italian and American doctors in Naples.

This technicality cost the line $100,000, it was stated at the time. It also caused the second-class passengers considerable inconvenience, and the strict application of the quarantine rules was bitterly resented by the crew.

The Army and Navy Club at No. 10 Park square announced today that it has enlarged its dormitories in order to accommodate the large number of soldiers and sailors who apply at the clubhouse each night for sleeping accommodations. It is to help these men, as well as to continue the work of the club, that funds are being asked for now. Contributions may be sent to Charles Jackson, treasurer, Community Service, No. 10 Park square.

Unveil Lincoln Statue Amid Britons' Cheers

London, July 29.—The unveiling of the Lincoln statue, by Canning, in the inclosure of Westminster by the Duke of Connaught, was the occasion for the greatest pro-American outburst London has witnessed since the Victory parade.

It was believed in official circles that Elihu Root, who was entrusted with the donation of the statue to England, would seize the opportunity to refer to America's plans with regard to the League of Nations. However, he informed Sir Eric Drummond, secretary of the league, that he would leave the subject alone, when the latter asked his intentions.

As a matter of fact, after reviewing Lincoln's career, he confined himself to saying: "In any emergency it would be impossible for Great Britain and America to be on opposite sides. It is the desire of all true Americans to make the friendship existing between the two nations perpetual."

Premier Lloyd George, in accepting the gift, labored under extreme emotion. In paying tribute to Lincoln, he said:

"He is one of the few best known faces of the world. I doubt whether any statesman ever sank so deeply into the hearts of the people of so many lands. He is no longer a great American; he is one of those giant figures who lose their nationality in death, for he belongs to the whole of mankind. A nation that produced such a man must be sound to the core."

DEMAND BETTER CAR SERVICE

Chelsea and Revere Lead Campaign of Protest Against Bay State

Chelsea, Revere and other communities on the Chelsea division of the Eastern Massachusetts Street Railway Company are to unite in a campaign for better car service. A conference of representatives of these communities will be held within a few days.

Mayors Walsworth of Revere and Breath of Chelsea are backing the plan. Their cities already have appointed committees to handle the matter. Everett and Malden are expected to follow suit.

Service in Chelsea is "the worst in fifty years," according to Charles H. Black, a member of the Chelsea committee of protest. He urges a change in management.

Candidates for the Legislature from the cities and towns affected are being pledged to work for betterment of trolley service.

DOUBLE TRANSFER ANNOYS COMMUTERS

Persons residing between Arlington Centre and Arlington Heights, and beyond, who have occasion to use the Broadway-Clarendon Hill cars of the Boston Elevated Railway, are annoyed by the latest change on this line. Persons going to Sullivan square from Arlington Heights now are obliged to change twice. The cars have been running from Arlington Heights to Clarendon Hill in West Somerville, but now they run only between Arlington Centre and Clarendon Hill, making it necessary for persons desiring to use that line to ride to Arlington Centre and transfer to the Broadway car. At Clarendon Hill it is necessary to transfer again for Sullivan square.

WOMEN POKER PLAYERS RAIDED

New York Police Break Into Fashionable Houses With Axes

New York, July 29.—Finding the front doors locked, two squads of police, armed with axes, simultaneously ascended the fire escapes of fashionable houses in the lower hotel district, just off Fifth avenue, and, breaking in, arrested the men they found playing cards on gambling charges.

Almost at the same time police broke into the apartment of Mrs. Florence Schlessinger on One Hundred and Forty-third street and surprised eight women who, according to the police, were playing poker. When the policemen entered the women screamed and sought to hide their money and jewels. They mistook the officers for hold-up men.

The down town houses raided were on Thirty-first and Thirty-second streets. Seven arrests were made. The raids were made early in the evening, and the sight of the raiders climbing with their axes brought hundreds of persons to the scene.

SHIP BOARD CAN BLOCK RIVALS

Has Power to Act, if Japan and England Try to Discriminate

By International News Service.

Washington, July 29.—Threats of foreign nations to discriminate against the United States Merchant Marine because of provisions of the merchant marine act of 1920 will be met with immediate counter action by the shipping board, according to announcement today by the board.

Under the merchant marine act the United States can adopt preferential tidewater rail rates to assure tonnage for American shipping. This has been resented by both Japan, which has similar legislation, and England. Japan has threatened to take action against American shipping if the preferential provisions of the merchant marine act are enforced.

HOW BOARD CAN ACT.

The shipping board feels it has two opportunities to prevent any discrimination against American bottoms. If Japan, as has been suggested, makes special regulations on freight to American ports to drive American competition from the sea, and does not make similar provision for other nations, the shipping board has the right to inquire into the action before the ship carrying the Japanese cargo is permitted to dock.

In addition the Interstate Commerce Commission has the power to order increased rates or take other action to counteract discriminatory preference given in Japan or to the Japanese carriers through either the North or South Pacific pools in which the Japanese ships operate.

Explaining the provisions of the merchant marine act to which the foreign countries object, Rear Admiral Benson of the Shipping Board declared:

MUST PLAY GAME FAIRLY.

"The discriminatory features of the law are not intended as a club over foreign competition. They are merely there to force our competitors to play the game fairly. Foreign shipping interests must stop their discriminations against American vessels if they do not wish us to resort to section 28 of the act."

Section 28, providing for preferential rates for goods to be shipped in American bottoms, will not be placed into operation before January 1, because of the inability of the board to complete its investigations of travel lanes and because of the immense amount of freight being handled.

Officials of the board explained the Japanese law, granting preferential rates and rebates to ship companies, has caused American vessels to return to the United States without full cargoes on numerous occasions.

SHOOTING STOPS THE PARTY

2 Men and 2 Women Charged With Assault After Arguments Get Warm

New York, July 29.—Two men, who are in Bellevue Hospital, and two women were placed under arrest early today charged with felonious assault, following an argument in the apartment of Mrs. Carrie Weber Sidney, of No. 300 West 49th street.

One of the men in the hospital, describing himself as Peter Baumer, a lawyer, with offices at No. 1 Broadway, was shot in the right hand and right side. Mrs. Sidney is said by the police to be the person who fired the shot that struck Baumer. She was arrested on his complaint, but emphatically denied having done the shooting.

Too much talk about Sinn Feinism, domestic politics and things in general was the cause of the "disturbance," according to Mrs. Sidney's story at the West 45th street police station. Mrs. Sidney is the wife of George Sidney, an actor, who is now on the road.

PARTY WAXES WARM.

Mrs. Sidney was in a restaurant in West Forty-eighth street with Edward J. Brady and the latter's wife, Ray Brady, an actress. Baumer was there with a male companion, and both groups became acquainted. It was later suggested that all hands go to the home of Mrs. Sidney, who said she had some liquid refreshment.

During the party at her home someone fell on the sideboard and knocked off some expensive cut glass, she said. The argument waxed warm and all hands joined in it, save Baumer's companion, who disappeared in the excitement.

During the uproar, it is alleged, Mrs. Sidney procured a small revolver and fired a shot, after which, it is alleged, she threw the pistol into the yard. About $1,000 worth of cut glass was broken in the mixup, it is alleged, and the noise awakened other tenants in the house.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL.

West 47th street station policemen who were called sent Baumer to Bellevue and attended Brady for lacerations of the scalp. Brady refused to go to the hospital in the ambulance, but later went there himself. He refused to give his address.

All four were arrested on counter charges of felonious assault. When Baumer was taken to the hospital he first described himself, according to the police, as John Hennessy, a clerk. Later when confronted with a card he had presented to one of his new acquaintances bearing the name of Baumer, he admitted that was his correct name, according to the police.

Jenkins, third son of the plaintiff, died June 12. Jenkins is supposed to have died of apoplexy as a result of overindulgence in whiskey while Mrs. Findlay's guest.

CHOP ELEVATOR TO SAVE BOY

Child Alone in Lift Caught as He Tries to Jump Out Door

New York, July 29.—Firemen, with axes and blow torches, tried to free John Kennelly, Jr., seven years old, son of a fire captain, when he was caught in an elevator shaft at No. 21 West Thirty-fourth street.

The accident occurred at the height of the shopping hour. Women inside the building became hysterical and many of them fainted. News of the fight the firemen were making passed around. In a short time thousands of persons were gathered in the street.

The store is occupied by Kipnes & Rabinowitz, dealers in pocketbooks and furs. The boy, the son of Captain John Kennelly of Engine No. 37, went to the building with his mother and younger sister.

While Mrs. Kennelly and her daughter were shopping the boy wandered off.

Suddenly a scream drew the attention of the crowd of women on the lower floor. Mrs. Kennelly looked around and missed her son.

Those nearest the shaft saw the boy in the elevator, which was unattended, it is said. The elevator started, and as it reached the second floor the boy plunged out and was caught between the elevator and the floor.

Timbers of Mayflower Shown in London

London, July 29.—Some of the original timbers of the Mayflower, from which the Pilgrim fathers landed at Plymouth in December, 1620, were exhibited today by Dr. Rendel Harris, a prominent British Quaker, during a lecture before the Mayflower celebration committee.

Experts who examined the timbers pronounced them at least 300 years old and said they evidently had belonged to a ship of the size of the Mayflower. The letters "er Ha" were found cut with a knife at the end of one of the timbers. As the Mayflower sailed from Harwich, it is presumed that one of the passengers had cut the name of the ship and her hailing port, but that the balance of the words, "Mayflower, Harwich," had been cut away when the timbers were sawed up.

The timbers were found built in as part of a barn on the old "Jordan farm" in Buckinghamshire, where William Penn is buried. There is a big Quaker colony in that district.

Old records show that an owner of the Jordan farm in the seventeenth century owned a quarter interest in the Mayflower and that the celebrated old vessel was converted into a whaling ship about 1654 and was used in the whaling trade off the coast of Greenland.

POLISH FIGHTING FRONT BROKEN

Russians Inflict Heavy Losses; Mass for a New Drive North of Warsaw

Berlin, July 29.—During the fighting on the Polish battle front, which has followed Russia's acceptance of Poland's plea for an armistice, the Russians have broken the Polish front over its entire length along the Niemen River, said a dispatch from Warsaw today. The Polish losses are reported to be heavy.

Polish aviators report the Russian high command is massing 10,000 cavalrymen between Vilna and Grodno indicating that the Bolsheviki are preparing for a new drive north of Warsaw.

A possible explanation of continued fighting by the Russian Red army was contained in the following dispatch to the newspaper Neuer Berliner:

"Officers of the old Czarist regime in the Russian army are refusing to obey Moscow's order for an armistice with the Poles.

"Tension has developed between the Bolshevik commanders and the army generals. Apparently the latter are either unable or unwilling to restrain the troops."

Minister of Defence Gessler has issued a proclamation warning Germans to beware of Bolshevik agents who pretend to be recruiting soldiers for service in the Russian "White" (Anti-Bolshevik) army. There is reported to be much activity in different parts of Germany by recruiting agents who declare they are seeking men for General Wrangel's army on the Crimean front.

The allied mission at Danzig is taking stern measures to put down labor troubles that arose over the shipment of war supplies to Poland. It was reported that British soldiers are being used as strike-breakers to unload ships containing munitions consigned to the Polish army.

MOBILIZE ARMY AT MEXICALI

Governor Cantu Prepares to Repel "Invasion of Southern California"

Mexicali, Lower Calif., July 29.—Preparations went rapidly ahead today to repel the "invasion of Southern California," as Governor Esteban Cantu has termed the sending of Mexican government troops into his domain.

A volunteer army is rapidly being recruited and, according to officers it will number 4,000 within a few days. Recruiting offices were opened within a few hours after Governor Cantu had received word of the proposed "invasion." A proclamation was issued calling upon all the citizens of the State to take arms against the invaders.

Governor Cantu today expected an answer from President de la Huerta to his telegram charging the Mexican chief executive with full responsibility for any damage or bloodshed that may come from the "invasion."

The three airplanes which Governor Cantu recently added to his military establishment were scheduled to take the air today in an effort to gain definite information as to the strength of the invading army. These planes are equipped for bombing, and a large supply of aerial bombs has been manufactured.

Reports to Governor Cantu indicated that the forces converging in Ensenada number about 4,000. Of this number 3,000 are from Manzanillo and 1,000 from Guaymas.

CAMPAIGN SONG 'BOOST COX'

Democrats Plan for Great Singing and Brass Band Political Drive

By International News Service.

Dayton, O., July 29.—Democratic leaders plan to make this a singing campaign.

Deeply impressed by the psychological effect of "Ohio" upon the delegates at the San Francisco convention, Chairman George H. White has determined that a test shall be made of the possibilities of music as a means of swaying political sentiment, and a number of prominent composers are now at work on Cox campaign songs which will be officially adopted and promulated by the Democratic campaign committee.

Bands will take a prominent part in both the "home-coming" celebration to Governor Cox in Dayton on Friday and the notification ceremonies at Montgomery County Fair Grounds on August 7. Among the musical organizations participating will be the famous "Rainbow Division" band, which is made up of men from the Ohio National Guard who fought with the division in France.

Another now famous musical organization which will take a prominent part is the Meteor Band of Piqua, O., whose martial airs at the San Francisco convention are credited by Democratic leaders with having done much to bring about the nomination of Governor Cox, but the chief musical number of the notification ceremonies has been reserved as a surprise. It is a song, destined, Democratic leaders say, to become the battle cry of the coming campaign.

It is entitled "Boost Cox" and will be rendered by the Columbus Glee Club, an organization of fifty members who participated in the Cox campaign fight at San Francisco. It is sung to the melody of "Harrigan." Here is the chorus:

"J-i-m-m-y-c-o-x spells Jimmy Cox.
We'll shelve the man who'll say a word agin him.
Elect him and he'll give you the best that's in him.
He stands on his record of the past.
Open for inspection to all.
It's a name, all in fame, and is sure to be connected with the White House this Fall."

Harding and Guests Have Breakfast of "Ham and —"

By International News Service.

Marion, Ohio, July 29.—Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican nominee for President, sat down to a good old-fashioned meal of ham and eggs and trimmings at 8 o'clock with a delegation of about fifty from Chicago, headed by Fred W. Upham, Republican national treasurer; Brigadier-General William Nathan MacChesney and Charles Piez, formerly of the Shipping Board.

MacChesney was vice-chairman of General Leonard Wood's pre-convention national campaign committee. He assured Senator Harding that Wood men throughout the country were working hard for the success of the Republican ticket and "with their sleeves rolled up."

The breakfast was served at the Marion Club.

'COUNTESS' ASKS JAIL PARDON

Petition for Release of Alleged Firebug Given to Maine Governor and Council

Augusta, Me., July, 29—Pleading that her ignorance of American legal customs resulted in her pleading guilty to the charge of arson, Attorney Arthur L. Thayer, appearing before the Governor and Council asked for a pardon for Mrs. Hermance Nelson, said to be the first wife of Count De Beck, a Hungarian nobleman.

The case was taken under advisement for one month. A petition asking her pardon, signed by 83 Carmel residents, was submitted.

Mrs. Nelson, according to her statements, resided in London and went to France to live with her people, meeting in the southern part of the country many American soldiers. She determined to come here and live, marrying George L. Nelson of Carmel, whom she met on a boat while en route to the United States.

An ordinance prohibiting the dancing of the "shimmy" in public has been passed by the village board, which provides arrest for the culprits with a fine of not less than $50 for every offense.

JEALOUS SPOUSE SHOOTS TWO

Framingham Man Wounds Former Boarder Twice; Bullet Hits Woman Passerby

Jealousy is alleged to have led to the shooting of Michael Fiarilli, aged twenty-eight years, of Framingham, as he stepped from a cigar store on Howard street, Framingham, and the wounding of Mrs. D. Decicco, mother of Dr. Anthony Decicco, who was passing near the scene at the time.

According to the police, John Brianthino, aged thirty-five years, of Claflin street, Framingham, formerly lodged the wounded man in his home and was jealous of his attentions to Mrs. Brianthino. The pair recently came to blows. The victim of the shooting was fined in court for assault and left to live elsewhere.

Essex Prosecutor to Round Up Persons Suspected of Helping Dr. Keown

Search for fifty persons suspected of giving aid to Dr. James A. Keown of Lynn in his two escapes from the Danvers Insane Asylum is being made by District Attorney S. Howard Donnell of Essex County.

RAYMOND'S

CAPE COD'S THE PLACE

I's doan to Cape Cod the other day. Woz yer ever doan there? If yer hain't yer don't know what you've missed. Tom Saint's been tellin me the goshdarndest yarns bout the Cape yer ever hear'n tell on, as a rule I don't believe a word Tom says, but he's right bout the Cape. Clams and windmills are some of the chief productions. Yer otter see the pooty windmills stuck up on fences an posts, red, blue, pink and every other color, all flying round as tho the devil had kickedem in the end, and people goin by buyem. I bot one an stuck it up out home, so now I can see which way the wind is; great thing to know which way the wind blows. If some of the Ducks had knowed it last winter they wouldn't got stuck so bad. An the clams, the're all right, but very inhospitable and unsocial; I went doan on the beach an spoke to'em, said, "how are yer, Clams," an the chumps pulled in their heads an shut up, but I spose they dont know any better. An yer ot to see the houses all painted up jess as nice an white as can be, green blinds n'everythin; no old shaks doan there an more human bein to the square inch than any place I ever see, cept Toddy Pond, so if you're goin off anywhere an spect to get broke fore yer get back, go doan to the Cape coz the people there 'l feed yer even if yer haint got no money. Tom tol the truth bout the Cape anyway. Yours Truly Where U Bot the Hat.

U. S. GROWING AS SEA POWER

Contest Between Britain and America Just Beginning, Says Hurd

London, July 29.—The contest for sea-power between Great Britain and America is only just beginning, according to Archibald Hurd, who draws his conclusion in reviewing, in the Telegraph, Lloyd's register tables which have just been issued.

These tables show that from a total of two million tons of sea-going merchantmen in 1914, the United States has increased to a point where she now owns nearly twelve and one half million tons of shipping, as compared with the eighteen million of the United Kingdom.

RETURNS JUSTIFY CAUTION.

"The returns justify the word of caution uttered last week in the Telegraph, when figures were published showing a marked increase in British shipbuilding activity, and the decline of work on hand in American shipyards and engine shops," the article declares. "The falling off of American construction did not mean that we need not anticipate keen competition in shipbuilding and operating on the part of the Americans.

"The figures rather suggested that production was proceeding faster in the United States than in this country; than an immense volume of shipping had been put afloat to compete with vessels under British flag and other flags, and that American shipbuilders with fewer domestic orders would prove keener competitors than in any preceding period for laying down foreign ships."

ADMIRATION FOR U. S.

Hurd confesses that the way in which the United States has leaped to a position of the second naval power of the world by concentrated efforts must move Englishmen to admiration.

"All that British shipowners can expect or legitimately wish, is that they shall have fair play, and that the seas as well as the ports of the world remain free, so that the most efficient service may be rendered, whether by ships under the British, American or other flag," he continued.

BROOKLINE TAX RATE INCREASED 80 CENTS

The Brookline tax rate for 1920 will be $17.30 per thousand valuation, an increase of 80 cents over last year, it is announced by the board of assessors. The assessors valued the real estate and personal property in the town at $103,636,400.

MARY PICKFORD NEARLY MOBBED

Movie Bride and "Doug" Get Boisterous Welcome Home in New York

New York, July 29.—Home after a European honeymoon which was marked with receptions and great demonstrations Douglas Fairbanks and his bride, Mary Pickford, received a greeting here that was a thriller.

When the great Olympic docked rival reception bands struck up tunes with "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." Finally winning Jack Gleason Abbott of the Friars and George Dougherty, former deputy police commissioner, headed a deputation of theatrical people and tried to extend a real formal welcome.

But it wasn't much of a go. The thousands of persons who had crowded around to view in the flesh and cheer their film heroes were to impetuous. They surged here and there and finally went through the police lines like a tidal wave.

They swirled around the newlyweds, tried to take pictures with cameras of all descriptions, and pleaded with their favorites to look this way and that. The score of policemen were helpless until reinforced by mounted men, when they finally cleaved a pathway to a waiting automobile.

The movie king and queen led a procession of cars that was almost regal to the Ritz Carlton Hotel where they will stay for four days before going to California.

Fairbanks said there is a fine field for American theatres and American movie productions in Great Britain.

By International News Service.

Interlaken, N. Y., July 29.—The price of hops is due to hop this Fall, so hop growers say. All Summer tourists have been riding through the hop country looking at the growing crop with longing eyes.

It's going to be a bumper crop. The autoists are ready to buy the hops right off the vine to be taken home for their concoctions of "home brew."

Canton, July 29.—Joanna Elizabeth Ormand, aged sixteen, of No. 254 Meridian street, East Boston, drowned within a few feet of the shore in Reservoir Pond while bathing with several of her school chums, near the Massachusetts Hospital School.

The girls, who were under the supervision of a nurse, were playing in about four feet of water when one fell, dragging the Ormand girl out into deeper water.

An attendant in a boat quickly turned to their assistance and helped the girl who fell to the shore, but the disturbance of the sand and mud during their struggle so clouded the water that it was impossible to see the victim, who at no time came to the surface.

It was several minutes before her body was found. Doctors and hospital attendants worked for two hours or more in their efforts to revive her, but were unsuccessful. Miss Ormand was attending the State

SEEKS TO BAR ELWELL WIDOW

Father of Turfman to Prevent Her From Gaining Part of Fortune

Ridgewood, N. J., July 29.—His hope gone for the finding of the murderer of his son until that person confesses on his deathbed, Joseph S. Elwell, father of Joseph Bowne Elwell, whist expert and turfman, who was shot to death in his home June 11, was today preparing to resist any attempt of his son's wife to gain part of his fortune.

The will left his estate to his parents. The father said that he was prepared to spend every penny he has to prevent his daughter-in-law from getting any of it. He estimates his son's estate at $1,000,000.

Mr. Elwell is deeply disappointed with the police investigation of his son's murder. He feels that the many stories that have been sent out about bootlegging and women are mere camouflage to draw the spotlight from the fact that the police and the district attorney have failed.

Whatever You Do Don't Neglect Your Eyes, Says Dr. Lewis, Who

Tells How to Strengthen Eyesight 50% in One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

Philadelphia, Pa.—Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. He says neglect causes more eye troubles and poor sight than any other one thing. Many whose eyes were failing say they had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefitted by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two or four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

NOTE: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted said, "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them." The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent. in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist, and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family. It is sold in Boston and vicinity by all the leading druggists.—Advertisement.

FIVE HURT IN FIRE TRUCK CRASH

Lynn Apparatus Plows Into Two Autos; Manchester Woman Near Death

Two women may die and three other persons were painfully hurt as the result of a collision between a piece of Lynn auto fire apparatus and two automobiles at Summer and Commercial streets, Lynn. All three machines were put out of commission.

Mrs. W. S. Patterson of Proctor street, Manchester, received a probable fracture of the skull and multiple cuts and bruises. She was removed to the Lynn Hospital where her condition is reported as grave.

AUTOISTS THROWN OUT.

Mrs. Mary Woodbury of Bridge street, Manchester, sustained multiple cuts, bruises and abrasions. She is at the Lynn Hospital in a serious condition.

Both women were occupants of a machine driven by W. S. Patterson, husband of the former. The fire truck, a combination hose and chemical truck, was answering a still alarm and was speeding down Commercial street when the Patterson car suddenly appeared from around the corner of Summer street.

The heavy fire truck plowed into the lighter automobile throwing the occupants out. The driver of both cars say they saw each other too late to bring the machines to a halt in time to prevent a collision.

TRUCK DRIVER HURT.

Although the driver of the fire truck put on his brakes he was unable to stop the car before it struck another auto operated by John Bellows of No. 316 Summer street. The latter machine was following behind the Patterson car.

Others injured in the accident were: Mr. Bellows, cut about the leg, taken to Lynn Hospital. Eric Johnson, driver of fire truck, cuts about legs, taken to his home. W. S. Patterson, of Manchester, slight cuts and bruises. Three boys, children of the Patersons, escaped with a few scratches.

Berrying 'City Folks' Rouse Farmers' Ire

Manchester, N. H., July 29.—The townspeople of Litchfield, a few miles south of here, vigorously protesting the attacks of the hordes of "City Folks" who invade the town Sundays and other days in search of blueberries and who, the farmers claim, commit all kinds of depredations, are up in arms.

A meeting of protest has been called at which it is expected at least fifty constables will be appointed.

Chairman Walter A. Crowell was in Manchester and ordered 1,000 trespass signs. They will be posted throughout Litchfield.

OLD HOME DAY IS OBSERVED IN CARVER

Carver, July 29.—The nineteenth annual Old Home Day was observed here at Shurtleff Park yesterday. Hundreds of the natives of Carver who are scattered in different parts of the country returned to the scenes of their childhood with their children and grandcildren for the celebration and reunion with their friends and relatives.

Shock-Absorbers For False Teeth

Cleveland, June 15.—Non-Skid Shock Absorbers for false teeth are the latest thing. Heretofore the principle of shock absorbers has been limited in application, but now a Cleveland chemical concern advertises a powder which, sprinkled upon "store teeth," forms a smooth cushion, holds them firmly in place, and gives a "non-skid" effect while they romp over the toughest roasting ears of corn and chew the stickiest candy.

One who has lost his natural teeth can supply himself with this antiseptic, adhesive comfort-powder—Coregа—at a drug store, and proceed to laugh and sneeze, crack nuts and do other hazardous things without risk of shaking his prized false teeth from their upper and lower berths. 35c at Druggist.—Advertisement.

Do You Get What You Earn?

Of the immense wealth that flows in never-ending streams from the wheels of industry, part goes as recompense for labor, and the other part is the reward of the capital invested. Most men who have climbed from the ranks have found their way up the ladder of success through the fruits of their early dollars invested.

The Road to Wealth is Paved with Wise Investments

By investing in enterprises in their early days you reap every dollar of profit that an industry earns. The same opportunity exists today in industry that did five, ten or fifteen years ago. The men who today are literally "rolling in wealth" from the great automobile and tire industry a few short years ago were mere mechanics at the bench or clerks in an office.

They did not reach this position by spending all they earned—they saved and invested in this great new, growing industry.

Above is a photograph taken on May, 25 showing our plant and office building in the course of construction.

The cut in the upper left-hand corner of the accompanying photograph shows our new office building, which is nearing completion. The executive offices will be located in this building after July 15.

Charles C. Perkins, Treasurer, Building and Loan Association, New London, Conn.

The right hand cut shows our new tire and tube plant. The foundation and the first floor have been completed and work is being rushed on the remaining three stories so as to enable us to take possession in the late summer of this year.

It would be worth the effort for any person contemplating purchasing our stock to visit our plant at West Haven, seeing for themselves the progress which is being made.

The Wonderful History of the Tire Business

Recall the early history of the great tire industry. Think of all the names now famous for their products and noted for the huge profits they have brought to their investors. Goodyear, Kelley-Springfield, Goodrich, Fisk, Firestone and Republic, or even the smaller tire companies such as the Mohawk, have all met with success. Is it not but reasonable to believe that the Kelley Tire and Rubber Company has an equal chance for the same measure of success as any one of these companies?

The speculative stage has been passed in the history of the Kelley Tire and Rubber Company. Today the great factory of the company in West Haven, Conn., is rising to its third floor, overlooking the main line of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad and observable to everyone that passes on the train. This factory, which has commanded such universal attention that one of the great trade publications of the rubber industry, "The India Rubber World," devotes in its July 1st issue several pages to describing what it calls "one of the most efficient tire plants in America," is designed by Monks & Johnson, of Boston, Mass., an engineering firm of a national reputation, and being constructed by Charles R. Hedden Company, of Newark, N. J., one of America's leading construction companies.

Thousands of people in New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and other leading states have backed their judgment with their money after rigid investigation of the company and its affairs. The largest portion of the common stock has already been subscribed—there remains but a portion to go to those who are seeking a good industrial investment and who have the wisdom to know that it is the investor who buys at the lowest price who is going to share in the full profits of the company.

The Stock is Now Selling at $10 per Share

Use Cocoanut Oil For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo (which is pure and entirely greaseless) is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily, and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advertisement.

FRANCE AWAITS U. S. REPLY

Will Not Make Peace With Russia If America Declares Against Soviets

Paris, July 29.—World peace was considerably nearer today, in spite of Washington's attitude of aloofness toward the European attempts to conclude a satisfactory settlement of the Russian problem.

Unable to get any official responses committing the American State Department to any policy, France, at the Boulogne conference, inaugurated a plan of compromise which is expected to lead to a general peace before Fall.

FRANCE WANTS DEBTS PAID.

This much was admitted by a highly-placed member of the Millerand diplomatic party, on their arrival in Paris.

"Unless the United States officially declares its intention of backing France's claim concerning repayment by the Soviets of the Czar's debt, France must necessarily fall in with the Italo-British agreement for full recognition of the Soviets as soon as possible," this official said.

"On the other hand, if the frantic efforts now being made here to induce Washington to declare itself in favor of France's policy against the Soviet government, until the Russian gold is shipped to Paris, succeed, such a Franco-American diplomatic alliance is sure successfully to block all efforts of the rest of the world towards a resumption of peace conditions.

BLOODSHED WOULD ENSUE.

"In this case, a period of unrest and bloodshed is sure to ensue. Divested of diplomatic camouflage, the result of the Boulogne conference involves France's acceptance of the principles of the London conference at which French diplomats will discuss world affairs with Soviet representatives on terms of equality.

"This simple fact means de facto recognition.

"Poland will be the trading currency.

"France will insist that terms to her own satisfaction be offered Warsaw, in compensation whereof the Soviet representatives will demand recognition, trading facilities, etc.

"The question of repayment of the Czar's debt probably will be settled on the basis of the Universal Service dispatch of Tuesday—which reported that the Soviets undoubtedly would promise nothing in regard to Poland and would demand free access to Germany.

CONFERENCE EXPECTED.

"Neither London nor Paris really expects the Soviets to accept the terms drawn up at Boulogne, at least not unconditionally, but they fully believe that the tone of their reply would lead to another Inter-Allied conference, probably at Hythe, where final adjustment is anticipated.

"A formal invitation for America to participate in the London conference would then be dispatched, signed by all the Allies, and possibly by the Soviets also, but it is a foregone conclusion that failure of America to accept the invitation would prevent or postpone the London meeting.

"In this case, the United States would be the only worldpower maintaining a virtual state of hostility toward the Russians."

In each election district (wards or recincts) voting places called "the lls" are appointed. Each voter is quired to go to the voting place his district. At the polls every re is taken to protect the secrecy the voter's ballot and to guard ainst unlawful voting. First an ection inspector asks the voter's me and address. Then, if the vot- name is registered on the voting t, he is given a ballot. The bal- contains the names of the candi- tes nominated for office and also questions which are to be de- ded by the vote of the people.

How does a voter mark the ballot? n receiving the ballot the voter s alone into one of the marking partments and prepares his ballot making a cross (X) in the square the right of the name of each can- date for whom he wishes to vote, or inserting the name of the person wishes to elect for that office in space provided for such choice making a cross in the square at right.

A voter may vote for an entire up of candidates for presidential ctors by making a cross (X) in the uare at the right of the party or litical designation immediately ove such group.

f a mistake is made in marking e ballot, it should not be corrected. k for another. If the second is iled, a third can be secured.

Before leaving the marking com- partment the voter should fold his llot, without displaying the marks ereon, as it was folded when re- ved, and keep it so folded until has voted.

All this should be done without de- lay. Ten minutes is the extent of the me allowed by law, five of which y be spent in the marking com- partment. But this law applies only en voters are waiting for com- partments. Before placing the ballot the ballot box, the voter must, if quested, give his name to the offi- er in charge, who will distinctly peat it, and check the name off the ting list. At this point a vote may challenged. That is, some one y object, stating that the person about to vote has no legal right to do so. In that case the voter may take oath in regard to his right, and the matter will be investigated.

MANNIX THREAT CALLED BLUFF

Dublin Feels Australian Prelate Will Be Allowed to Land at Last Moment

Dublin, July 29.—The feeling in Dublin is that the British government will not carry out its threat to bar Archbishop Mannix, whose Irish statements in the United States have roused the ire of English officials. The belief is general that at the last minute the Australian Catholic prelate will be allowed to land.

In any event, the archbishop is assured of a great reception by public bodies. Mayors of Irish cities and Irish corporations, who will send representatives to Queenstown to bid him welcome.

Owing to the military order against public meetings in Cork, the citizens will gather outside the proclaimed area to hear Archbishop Mannix speak.

In authoritative sources it is said there is absolutely no truth in reports that the Sinn Fein has made a truce with the British government to discuss the question of dominion Home Rule. Leading Sinn Fein M. P.'s say that they were elected on a plank which provided only for establishment of an Irish Republic, and consequently must entertain no thought of accepting a dominion statute.

The British government is recruiting ex-army officers to serve as police in Ireland as patrols for defense against the Sinn Fein.

Newport, R. I., July 29.—Detailed census figures of the population of Newport by wards show a number of things. Figures for the first ward reveal why the population of the city this year is 217 less than in 1915, when the State census gave 30,472 inhabitants. Five years ago, as this year, the enumerators of the first ward included men and boys enrolled at the training station. In 1915 the number at the station was at its height, while in January last, when the Federal enumeration was taken, the station was at the lowest ebb in years.

CAMBRIDGE GAS STRIKE NEAR

Workers Threaten to Stop Manufacture Unless Company Grants Conference

Unless the officials of the Cambridge Gas Company agree to a conference today with representatives of their employes, a strike of 250 workers will be called and the manufacture of gas stopped, which will necessitate residents of the city to bear the consequences.

According to Daniel J. Murphy, business agent of Engineers' Local No. 664 and representing Firemen's Local No. 2 and other gas company employes, the company has steadfastly refused to meet the workers in conference and attempt a settlement of grievances.

Albert M. Barnes, president of the company, while refusing to discuss the merits of the proposed strike, denies refusing to meet the workers.

Mayor Quinn of Cambridge has intervened and will use his offices to bring about a meeting between the contending factions.

Murphy charges the company is insisting on the workers signing individual contracts, which the workers are unwilling to do and hiring an increasing number of non-union employes.

COLBURN HEIRS ALLEGE FRAUD

Kin of Westwood Woman Say Witness Was Disqualified by Serving Sentence

The $290 000 estate left by Miss Nancy E Colburn of Westwood who died on March 8 1919 is the subject of litigation in the Superior Court of Suffolk County in a bill in equity brought by the heirs and next of kin of Theodore O Colburn of Boston.

The plaintiffs are Abbott [illegible] Colburn of Westwood Fred E Colburn of Norwood Mrs Hannah [illegible] Sargent and her sister, Laura I Fisher both of Westwood and [illegible] M, wife of A B Colburn and Mabel L, wife of F E Colburn. The respondents are Mrs Anna F Hodgdon wife of Dr Andrew F Hodgdon of Dedham, Mary E [illegible], Benjamin Fisher and Dr Andrew H Hodgdon, all of Dedham.

ATTACK VALIDITY.

The validity of the will of Miss Nancy E Colburn is now attacked on the ground that one of the subscribing witnesses to the document had served a sentence for crime and therefore was disqualified to be a witness.

Mrs Anna F Hodgdon wife of Dr Hodgdon and a daughter of the late Judge Waldo Colburn of the Supreme Court by the terms of the will was given an outright bequest and she and her children will share [illegible] and is entitled, upon the death of Edna B Baker to a trust fund of $50 000 which Miss Colburn created for her benefit.

FRAUD ALLEGED.

The plaintiffs allege "on information and belief" that on discovery of the invalidity of the will, which previously had been allowed by Judge Flint of the Norfolk County Court who appointed Dr Hodgdon as executor, they were induced by fraudulent representations to sign an agreement placing all the property of the estate in trust with Dr. Hodgdon and they also conveyed to him all their rights in the property of Miss Colburn.

The prayers of the bill are that the agreement of conveyance be declared void, and pending a hearing on the merits of the bill the respondents be enjoined from using the instrument signed by the plaintiffs to establish their assent to the appointment of Dr. Hodgdon and that the respondents be enjoined from recording the instrument as a conveyance of the real estate.

Judge Wait has issued an order of notice returnable on August 3.

HARDING COMING TO BOSTON

Republican Nominee Will Get Away From "Front Porch" as Far as Bay State

By Universal Service.

Marion, O., July 29.—In States in which the Republicans expect serious contests Senator Harding will supplement his "front porch" campaign with extensive speaking tours, according to announcement today.

Advisers to the nominee have mapped out his itinerary already.

BOSTON TO DENVER.

The extreme western point to be reached under the present schedule, will be Denver, although this may be changed to include a swing up the Pacific Coast, it was said. New York and Boston voters will also have an opportunity to hear Senator Harding. He will go South to Memphis and north to Chicago, with Minneapolis a possibility as yet undecided.

Urgings of prominent Republican leaders are credited with responsibility for the change in the Republican campaign plans. Will H. Hays and Senator Boise Penrose have persistently argued for a speaking tour in opposition to the front porch idea.

MESSAGE TO COOLIDGE.

"It is heartening to all Americans to read your stirring speech of acceptance. It adds to confidence in the Republican purpose to repossess the people with their government and emphasizes by conviction that as Vice-President you will be asked to make your office a serviceable port with the second highest place in the government of the Republic."

Senator Harding also found time to congratulate the commodore of the New York Yacht Club on the victory of the Resolute, including praise for Sir Thomas Lipton's sportsmanship.

Berkshire War Bride Has Husband Jailed

North Adams, July 29.—Declaring that her husband has beaten her, taken money she earned by working in a local mill and turned her out of his home and that she has not a friend in this country to turn to, Mrs. Percy Gresley, a French war bride who met her husband while he was overseas with American Expeditionary forces, has caused his arrest on charges of neglect to provide, and assault and battery.

He will appear in court tomorrow. Meanwhile funds have been provided by a local organization for Mrs. Gresley, who lost both her parents during the world war and was herself driving an army automobile.

TRUE TO FIRST LOVE MORE THAN 100 YEARS

Omaha, July 29.—Thomas Morris, aged one hundred and twenty-six years, died near Ainsley, Neb., recently. He was an Englishman and had records of his birth in 1794. He came to America fifty years ago in company of Charles Mitten, whom he had adopted twenty years before that date.

Morris never married, but remained true to his first sweetheart, who died more than a hundred years ago.

POLAND AN AID, SAYS TROTZKY

Will Become Bridge for Social Revolution in Western Europe

By KARL H. VON WIEGAND.

Berlin, July 29.—Leon Trotsky, addressing a congress of Russian railway employes, is quoted in wireless dispatches from Moscow as saying:

"Events show that Poland soon will be no longer a bolstering buffer State for us, but will become a bridge for the social revolution of the whole of western Europe.

"For that reason the Entente feverishly is increasing her aid. We, on our part, must triple our efforts to place the Entente before an accomplished fact, the final annihilation of white Poland, even before the Entente has sent its corps to Poland."

The Russian Wireless communique reported the fall of Brody and Tarnapol, leaving the way open to the capture of Lemberg. In Brody the Red army claims to have captured the 18th Polish Infantry Division, 1,000 men, nineteen guns and many machine guns.

Both Russia and Polish communiques show the Russians to be exerting their utmost energies in the attack of the last three days before the meeting of the armistice parliamentarians.

ARTIST ORPEN REFUSES A $5,000,000 OFFER

London, July 29.—Sir William Orpen, a distinguished artist, has refused an offer of $5,000,000 for painting 300 portraits, which is said to have been made to him by an American. He said:

"It is quite true the offer of $5,000,000 to paint portraits came to me from America. To complete such a contract, however, would take far more than the ordinary lifetime—it might take as long as 300 years."

BRITISH STARS WIN EASILY

Get Long Lead on Amateur Rivals and Hold Advantage All the Way

stand any amount of work for they were put at work the day after their ship docked in New York and have been engaged in a hard drive ever since. Their matches have been played over long courses and often against stiff opposition. When their opponents have been weak special prizes for course records, and their desire to give the public a good exhibition have kept them plugging.

Managers Overlooked Vardon's 50 Years

The campaign managers must have forgotten that Vardon celebrated his fiftieth birthday anniversary in May and that he has taken on considerable weight since his last American tour. The schedule has been altogether too severe and unless it is soon lightened the Britishers will be unable to do themselves or the public justice.

If Vardon is as used up as he appeared to be at Springfield he will need a good rest before he tackles that big job at Belmont on Friday or Ted Ray will have to carry the biggest portion of John Bull's burden. Ray is standing the constant tramping over new courses and playing before strange galleries much better than Vardon. His exhibition at Springfield needs to be considered before forming an opinion as to which team, the American or British will win at Belmont.

Wearing to Play for Big Galleries

Playing before and among large galleries is wearing. The Vardon-Ray caddies, Horgan for Vardon and Sullivan for Ray, attest to this. The caddies have been with the Englishmen ever since their tour started and Horgan declares that the task of getting through the crowds and up to the ball is not an easy one. Added to this the galleries crowd so close to the line of play as to be in danger and neither Vardon nor Ray will make a shot until the gallery has moved to a safe distance.

Vardon waited repeatedly at Springfield for the gallery to get back, for had he hit his ball off the line with many folks in places they desired to stand some one would have been severely injured. All this [illegible] with the gallery helps to tire a player.

Horgan says that Vardon allows him to open holes in the crowds so he can get to his balls. The caddy declares that when he first started he said politely, "Please allow Vardon to pass through," or, "Please open up the line." Now Horgan moves on the crowds crying "Gangway, gangway." Sullivan has the same difficulty in getting Ray through. Anyone who has been in a large golf gallery knows that the minute shots have been played the crowd runs up behind the balls and forms a solid line which the players have to go through. The same is true when the balls have been played to the greens.

Another thing which probably has helped to sap some of Vardon's energy is the heat. He finds it much hotter golfing here than in England, yet he and Ray insist on observing the British custom of wearing coats while shooting. In order to resist the heat a little better they both purchased new Panama hats in New York and are wearing these instead of their heavy English caps or felts. [illegible] to wear [illegible] however with a much pipe, although most of the time it is unlit.

Vardon is wearing salt and pepper knickers and grey stockings, with a Palm Beach coat. Ray is wearing a brown suit, long trousers and coat, with pipe to match. They both wear heavy golfing shoes, which look as if they weigh a ton, quite different from the popular lightweight and useful shoes that Joe Farrell is always talking about.

The Springfield exhibition was a fizzle as far as competition was concerned. The Britishers took the lead at the start and kept making it bigger. They were six up at the turn. They lost the tenth, the only hole they did lose, and the match ended with the visitors 6 and 5 winners. The holes were played out and Vardon and Ray won two of these. Leach and Toole did not do themselves justice. They were too nervous to shoot good golf.

Ray Real Star Despite Vardon's Good Start

Although Vardon started with a birdie three at the first hole, Ray was the star of the day, for Vardon began to lose his pep and it was not many holes before he was just going through the motions. He did not hole out a putt unless it was necessary, and he hit at least one shot to a blind green without having anything but a general idea of the direction. He was too tired to climb a hill and sight the green, so he slammed the ball in what he guessed must be the proper line.

Ray was feeling much better. He made an effort to gather in the special prize of $100 put up for a new course record. He shot a neat 71 with a ball out of bounds at the third hole. The record is 69, made by John Cowan. Ray was out in 34, one under par, with his bad shot at the third, but he was short with a chip shot at the tenth, and took a six. This put him out of the running for the special prize. He finished in 37.

Vardon, provided one conceded him a number of putts and figured him two shots from the edge of at least two greens, would have been 78. Reach and Toole picked up more than once. Par and Ray's card follow:

Par	Out	4	4	4	3	4	5	3	5	3	35
	Ray	4	4	5	3	4	4	3	4	3	34
Par	In	5	5	4	4	3	4	5	4	3	37	72
	Ray	6	5	4	4	3	4	4	4	3	37	71

Gallery Marvels at Ray's Long Drives

The Vardon-Ray best-ball was 32 out and 36 in, Vardon aiding Ray at first with a three, the third with a four and the seventh with a four. The Reach-Toole best-ball was 38 out and 35 for eight holes in. Both picked up on the 16th. They would have been 78 or 79.

Ray hit some tremendous drives. Springfield people said that he was longer off the tees there than Jesse Guilford was when he appeared in the open tournament last month. One of Ray's best was his second drive at the third hole. His first being out of bounds, he pushed his second hard and laid it within a foot of the trap which guards the green. The hole is 300 yards and the trap not more than ten yards wide. The drive was [illegible] 290 long.

Vardon and Ray played two matches today at the Shuttle Meadow Club in New Britain, taking on a professional pair this morning and amateurs this afternoon.

MISS ANNA Q. NILSSON

New York—The secret of beauty is the proper care of the skin, says Miss Nilsson, the popular Metro star. "I only [illegible] a few moments time and attention is more than paid for [illegible] the effect it takes. The very best I have found for this purpose is Derwillo, as it instantly beautifies the complexion and its continued use makes the result permanent. Derwillo takes the place of face powder as it stays on better and is wonderful for a shiny nose, oily, dark, sallow skin, freckles, tan, wrinkles and other facial blemishes. Just make this test. Put Derwillo on one side of your face, then look in your mirror and compare it with the other side—you will need no further argument to convince you that nothing [illegible] It imparts [illegible] and if you would keep your complexion at its best [illegible] art of your toilet as you now do face powder [illegible] the favorable comments of your friends. 15,000 Pairs The sheer weave stocking is at the height of popularity. Many at all times prefer its daintiness. Being full fashioned, it fits perfectly, and being tight in tension, closely knitted, it clings at the ankle and over the instep. Contrary to the general opinion, a silk stocking of sheer weave made from tightly twisted silk wears equally as well as one that is heavier. And there is something fascinating in the appearance of a well-fashioned sheer silk stocking. HERE IS THE SITUATION—Our recent hosiery sales have attracted great interest among stocking manufacturers and wholesalers. It is natural that manufacturers who have a large quantity on hand to dispose of should turn to us, for they know of tens and tens of thousands of pairs sold during those sales, and the best place for a manufacturer to dispose of large quantities is where they can be handled easily and quickly. In this instance—it is the manufacturer's stocktaking period—he did not wish to carry over great quantities of his regular running numbers—particularly since the drop in silk—indeed he could not carry them over at the high former price—they all must be reduced and some may be discontinued. The proposition was put before us, with the result that again, right at the height of the season, 15,000 pairs of these cool, transparent silk stockings are on sale at just half price

Silk Stockings at 1.75 Many thousands of pairs of similar quality have been sold throughout the country the past season for 3.50 a pair and even more. In this lot are black, cordovan and gray—and it was due to the fact that the manufacturer had about ten thousand pairs in these colors only that we were able to purchase them at the price. In sheer stockings the assortment usually includes all the evening shades and white—and had the assortment in this lot been complete there would have been no cut whatsoever in the price. However, when all is said and done, these colors outsell all others ten to one—so notwithstanding there are no evening shades, about 90 per cent of stocking needs are met in this assortment and all these stockings are now offered at half price.

Pure Silk Stockings at 1.50 In this lot are black and chocolate. They are same quality silk as the 1.75 grade, but contain one strand less, and are two inches shorter in the length of silk. These stockings in the past season have sold for 3.00 per pair. Because of this before stock-taking purchase at the lowered silk price they are now marked 1.50 per pair.

Facts Worth Considering:

Point 1. Whereas they were 3.00 and 3.50; now they are 1.50 and 1.75 respectively.
Point 2. We know they wear splendidly; it has been proved
Point 3. They are all, every pair, perfect
Point 4. They are all, every pair, full fashioned
Point 5. Absolutely pure silk, there is no false impression of weight, as they contain no tin or iron

BAGBY BLANKS BARROW BAND

Red Sox Unable to Score Off A-1 Pitching of Sergeant Jim at Cleveland

Cleveland, July 29.—While the Boston Red Sox almost to a man are of the opinion that the Indians are a grand ball club and pick them to be out in front when the curtain goes down next October, still they are [illegible] determined to take a fall or two out of the Tribe before pulling stakes for Detroit, Saturday night.

They never had a chance against the [illegible] pitching of the league's leading hurler Jim Bagby, but they figure that they'll make up for lost time against Stanley Coveleskie today and Guy Morton and Ray Caldwell tomorrow and Saturday respectively. Joe Bush was slated to perform on the mound in the second frame of the series with Herb Pennock and Sam Jones ready for the call to arms on the other two days.

Barrow Had Dayton Giant Warming Up

Manager Ed Barrow almost introduced the newest member of the new Red Sox to the 10,000 odd fans in attendance at the first game as he [illegible] Al Clayton, the Dayton (Ohio) Goliath, warming up when Karr started to slip in the seventh. The Clayton person who did some pitching for the National Cash Register team in Dayton looks like a man mountain.

At least he appears to be the biggest thing in baseball captivity. If he has speed in keeping with his size he will make the fans think Walter Johnson and Guy Morton know absolutely nothing about smoke balls.

Barrow has three other youngsters with him. Grace, the Boston semi-pro catcher, Cliff Brady, second baseman from Pittsfield, Mass., and Henry Wolters, a left handed throwing first sacker from Seton Hall. It is doubtful if any of the kiddies will break into the games here as Barrow's men are determined to give the Indians the best they have. Their best in the opener was just nine runs shy as the Indians copped, 9-0.

WILLIAMS HURLS DEFI AT CARTER

Says He Will Match Flynn to Box Siegal at Any Date Convenient

By JACK CONWAY.

Jackie Williams, who manages a couple of regiments of fighters, is as accommodating as the polished young gentleman who tries to see [illegible] friend['s] wife a new $4,000 limousine. So when George Carter stepped under the calcium and declared he was trying to get matches for his outfit of punch fingers it was only natural that Williams should try to accommodate him. Said Williams:

"George Carter, manager of Nate Siegal, has at last come forth with a statement that he is prepared to let his worthy welterweight meet Kloby, Shevlin or Flynn. This outburst caused me considerable amazement as Siegal has been dodging a meeting with Flynn.

"I am ready to match Flynn with Siegal at 145 pounds ringside and will post $1,000 for weight same to go as a side bet.

"Carter also made some remarks about Pal Reid, who wants to box Wilson or O'Dowd. It is my pleasant duty to inform Carter that Malden Tommy Robson is prepared to kayo Pal at any time.

"Carter also says a few things about Harry Krammer not being able to get anybody to meet him. Paddy Owens of Cambridge is just aching for an opportunity to wallop the local southpaw."

John the Barber's Son to Box Here

John Reisler, son of John the Barber, will make his Boston ring debut in the semi final to the Martin-Sharkey bout at the Armory A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building next Tuesday night. He will have Harry Martin, brother of Terry, as an opponent. Reisler has won six of his last eight starts by knockouts and believes he carries too many guns for the local youth. As Martin has also been winning steadily there should be a lot of action crowded into the mill.

Terry Martin is at Diamond Hill preparing himself for his tussle with Sharkey. As both men are rushing two handed fighters the fans should witness plenty of action.

There will be popular assessments for this show.

Fitz-Murphy Bout Promises Action

Plenty of stirring moments are expected when Billy Fitzsimmons, Chelsea featherweight, opposes Billy Murphy of Staten Island in a twelve-round bout at Spaulding Park, Lowell, Saturday afternoon. Fitzsimmons has been a big winner in local rings and believes he will add Murphy to his list of victims. The latter has engaged in some fine bouts in Philadelphia and New York rings and is looking forward to coming through with a win Saturday.

Muggsy Must Be in Shape for Miller

Kayo Muggsy will have to be at his best to avoid defeat when he clashes with K. O. Harry Miller at Lewiston Friday night. Miller showed in Boston several years ago. He was then a fair performer. He later changed his residence to Detroit. He was there when Uncle Sam entered the war. He went to France and did his bit. He also found time in which to win a number of army boxing championships. Miller is now located in Boston and has shown a world of stuff in workouts at a local gymnasium. Neither Jack Renault nor George Robinson have been able to faze Miller. So it behooves Muggsy to be at his best when he enters the ring at Lewiston.

Josephs Will Try to Kayo Loadman

Bobby Josephs says he will try for a kayo when he meets Dick Loadman at Portland next Monday night. Joseph is a hard hitter and will be able to score with his punch against Loadman who is an open style type of fighter. It is one of the best bouts between little men which has been booked by a Maine club for some time.

BUGS BAER'S COLUMN

TENTING TONIGHT

Tenting tonight, tenting on the old camp grounds. In an effort to whittle down the high cost of whittling, the American public has taken to the woods and are now between the devil landlords and the deep, blue squirrels.

Once again we quote Krazy Kat Herriman. Be it ever so humbug, there are plenty of places like home. Words that sink into the brain like water on a mallard's shoulder blades and tear at the heart like a planked shad snapping at a fork.

The public doesn't ask much. Man wants but little here below. And he gets it. But he wants [illegible] slow par landlords or no landlords. And in order to make life worth [illegible] big cost of living, the family is vanning out of the half-family apartments and pitching their tents in the open. They are as safe there as a porcelain egg in an omelet. No landlord will come out into the open.

In the city, the public is between the nutcracker and the lemonsqueezer. But out in the country, everything is ad lib. The dry cows moo for him, the cuckoos sing at him, the poison ivy grows for him and the brooks gurgle merrily through the water meter. Everything is as merry as alimony bells. If he wants to garb rheumatism in the dewy dawn, he can't get it without being held up by a ticket speculator. There is no war tax on moskeeters snaps. Everything is free and uneasy. All he needs is a terraced swamp and a tent over his knob to prevent the early birds from snatching him up as legitimate prey.

A man in a tent is like a turtle. He can pull in his skull-piece every time he pipes a bill collector and [illegible] that he is not at home. Which is decidedly correct. Nobody ever [illegible] very much at home in a tent. [illegible] wants to move, all he has to [illegible] is to stand up and walk off with [illegible] tent hanging around his neck [illegible] a patched canvas Lavaliere. He [illegible] the comforts of home with [illegible] of the conveniences. All the [illegible] he needs is a can opener to attack the wild and ferocious denizens of the delicatessen stores.

The tent stuff has solved the high expense of uncancelled rent receipts. There are long loops of vans that wheeling out into the loose suburbs, loaded with tents and happy refugees from the high tariff zones. The weather van shows which way the rent blows.

But the landlord's gimme muscles ain't getting any weaker. He keeps in practice by raising the rent on the empty apartments. The Sun may take 'em tenting, but the frost will bring 'em home. And the further you stretch your suspenders, the harder they fly back.

NEWARK BOXING SHOW SCANDAL

Governor Edwards May Act on New Charges—Morgan Again in Limelight

Newark, N. J., July 29.—Charges that the State Boxing Commission permitted violations of the law at the boxing show in the First Regiment Armory Monday evening have been formulated by William M. Goldweber, lawyer for John J. Jennings, manager and for the other stockholders of the Armory Athletic Club of Jersey City.

Mr. Goldweber said he would send the charges to Governor Edwards.

His complaint will allege that in violation of the law a boxing bout was staged between a white man and a black man.

That tickets in excess of the seating capacity of the First Regiment Armory were sold, that tickets were sold in saloons and that tickets that should have been sold for $16 [illegible] including the war tax were sold for from $[illegible] to $40; that the Boxing Commission knew that Daniel Morgan was [illegible] manager for both Britton and Marcel Thomas; that 10 per cent of [illegible] gross receipts were not paid to [illegible] Federal government and the State [illegible] the Newark Sportsmen's Club, which [illegible] $6,600 for the use of [illegible] from the International Sporting Club of New York, a foreign organization in whose name the tickets were sold, although it had no legal right to give a boxing exhibition in New Jersey.

When informed of Goldweber's charges Governor Edwards said he would decide what he would do after [illegible] read them.

BARNES LEADS BIG FIELD

Sunset Hills Pro Shoots 69 in Metropolitan Open Tournament

Greenwich, Conn., July 29.—Jim Barnes, golf professional of the Sunset Hills Club of St. Louis, played in one stroke under par and led Walter Hagen, the National open champion, at the end of the first round of the Metropolitan open championship here.

More than 100 golfers took part in the tournament and Barnes showed the way to the entire field with the fine score of 69, two strokes better lower than were registered by Hagen and W[illegible] McFarlane of the Hempstead Club, who were tied for second place.

Contestants Crowd Leaders Closely

McFarlane shot great golf, but whether he can continue this pace is questionable. Wilfred Reid of Wilmington, Charles Hoffner of Belmont, [illegible] Edge of Druid Hills and John Farrell of Quaker Ridge are trailing closely with 72 each.

Jim McNamara of the Siwanoy Club, Emmet French of Tarrytown, Tom Kerrigan of Siwanoy, Tom Boyd of Fox Hills, George Fotheringham of Richmond County, George McLean of Great Neck and others of note turned in low scores, but they will have to travel faster. It is evident to keep stride with Barnes and Hagen.

Barnes was in rare form in every department of play. In clipping the par 70 of this course by a stroke he easily achieved a wonderful performance for the record of 69 [illegible] as if it will stand for some time.

Watch for This Story in Motion Pictures

"The W[illegible] his Wife," soon to be seen in motion pictures at the le[illegible] is a Cosmopolitan production released as a Paramount-Art[illegible] from the play by Charles Frederic Nirdlinger, founded on the Dramatic verse of Jose Echegaray.

L[illegible] Teodora was so [illegible] suspecting anything [illegible] she gazed at the older wo[illegible] one mystified; to Mercedes her attitude was one of pose; she regarded this air of innocence as a cloak put on to conceal the real state of her feelings.

Her [illegible] tone reflected her [illegible] sentiments. "Come, come [illegible] are both old enough to know that [illegible] appearance of evil [illegible] passes very successfully for [illegible] you are daily putting yourself in [illegible] position of ridicule."

"I [illegible] to Julian," said Teodora. "I cannot understand what makes you talk to me like this."

"I [illegible] already spoken to him and so has [illegible]," said Mercedes [illegible] her to try to keep [illegible] of Don Julian as un[illegible] have [illegible]."

"Re[illegible]," said the girl, rising [illegible] that this is my house and that you have no rights here. I shall [illegible] listen to such talk and if I were [illegible] age I would be as [illegible] of [illegible]."

"My dear girl," Mercedes hastily [illegible] to soothe her, "you can [illegible] freely to me. You do love this young man, do you not?"

"I [illegible] my husband," said Teodora simply. "I like Ernesto more than any man I ever saw but I love Julian."

Warned Her

"Of course you would have to say that," the other snapped. "Well, go your own way, but remember I have warned you that I wash my hands [illegible] come of [illegible]."

It [illegible] Mercedes had scored a [illegible] had discovered [illegible] satisfaction that Teodora really was in love with the poet [illegible] the other's avowal that she loved only her husband. To wish to [illegible] wrong of those words [illegible] easy path to [illegible] Mercedes was convinced and so she reported to Severo.

"The matter has proceeded so far that something must be done to separate them," said the man. "How can we do it? What arguments can we put forward to show Julian he is daily tightening a noose about his neck. If this young man had the remotest idea of decency he would depart at once."

"Depart?" sniffed his wife. "Why he is enjoying himself here. He is doing nothing but sit at the feet of Teodora all day. No wonder every one marvels at the patience of Julian and he himself a blind. How can we bring it home to him?"

"We must watch these two and when we see them together in their [illegible] attitudes we [illegible] Julian's attention. Constant dropping wears a stone [illegible] forever blind to the infatuation of this young man for his wife."

In which Severo showed a knowledge of human nature. Sure that [illegible] existed he wanted to be equally sure that his brother saw with his eyes the impending catastrophe.

Julian was possessed of a large fund of common sense, of a deep sense of trust, yet even he felt for the first time a stirring of distrust in his heart. He was ashamed of it, he tried to thrust it out, but like a ghost it rose, clothed in warning words, and stood before his busy eyes, threatening and ominous.

The scene at the cafe had also left its mark. If all the world talked, was not there occasion for it? Could the world imagine wrong where he, the husband, knew there was no wrong? It did not seem credible that the simple little jaunts of Teodora and Ernesto could be regarded with such [illegible] ominous interpretations if they were entirely innocent.

Ordeal of Doubting

Don Julian went through the ordeal of doubting that was bound to come. Torn between his desire to trust his wife implicitly, to trust the boy implicitly, he rebuked himself for suspecting, and yet the [illegible] was [illegible] sure. Did he sit down [illegible] vision of Ernesto reading to his wife came before him. Did he travel to Madrid or Cadiz, the picture of Teodora modelling the bust of Ernesto flitted before him.

Unjust, horrible thoughts, but to be reckoned with. What should he do? Could he doubt the sincerity of his brother and his brother's wife—the only people who had dared to speak openly to him?

Could he doubt the covert sneers of this scoundrel Don Alvarez who had mocked him with a compliment at the Cafe Granada?

The perfect mental poise that had made of Julian a man among men deserted him; he became as his thoughts were, fidgety, uncertain, suspicious, and every day brought anew a dreadful question? Had he trusted too much?

He found himself acting secretly the part of a spy. He felt impelled by a gnawing jealousy to appear suddenly in the midst of these two and face them with the accusations forming horrible shapes in his mind. The battle within himself for the mastery of himself grew like a poison weed in a swamp. Where he had been affable and soft of manner he had became abrupt and [illegible].

To Be Continued Tomorrow.

A Point in Pronunciation

A young Scottish recruit was put on sentry duty outside an officer's tent. In the morning when the officer rose and looked out of his tent he said to the young man "Who are you?" The young man [illegible] round smartly. "'Fine' Hoo's [illegible]?" he replied.

CHAPTER XL.

"DAISY GREENWOOD is a lovely girl," John Brandon commented as he and his fiancee drove away together.

"She is indeed," Barbara agreed warmly. "I love her better than any other friend. She is always so dear and unselfish."

"I am glad you told her of our engagement," Brandon said. "I like to think that your best man friend and most intimate girl-friend have learned it direct from you."

"I had to tell Mary Jameson too—for she was at Daisy's just now," Barbara confessed. "Do you mind?"

"Mind!" her companion laughed aloud. "I am so proud of the truth that I would like to have it announced in great big letters all over the world. Just see how foolish a middle-aged lover can be."

Barbara did not smile. Instead, she made a request.

"Mr. Br—I mean—John—would you mind not talking of yourself as if you were not young?"

He glanced at her in surprise.

"Why, dear? Anybody seeing my gray hair would know my age without my mentioning it. So why try to hide it?"

"I do not say that you must try to hide it. But why draw attention to it?"

Disparity of Ages

"You mean, Bab, that you would rather that people should not have their notice called to the disparity in our ages."

"Oh," she protested, afraid she had wounded him—"do not think that, please! It is only that I do not regard you as old—and you are not old—"

"I see," he muttered. "Do not try to explain. I understand."

She wondered if he did. She was almost sorry she had spoken. But she knew that people would be gossipping about the news they would soon hear—wondering that she, a mere girl, should marry a man old enough to be her father. Or perhaps they would not wonder—but, instead, jump to the conclusion that she had accepted John because he could give her a beautiful home and all the lovely things that money could bring her.

Would Robert fancy that? But no, he could not! He knew her too well to believe such a thing.

With a sick qualm she remembered how she had asked him if he was sure that he could support her, and how disturbed he had been at this question. He could not know that she had asked it because she longed to marry him, yet was reluctant to add to her uncle's burdens by accepting a poor man.

Robert might not comprehend this,—might put the worst construction upon her question—now that she was engaged to John Brandon. Until this moment she had not appreciated that he would suspect her of marrying for money.

Yet was that not what she was doing?

No, she told herself, she was not doing that! She was fond of John Brandon.

But she did not love him as she had loved Robert! That fact stood out more clearly than ever as she realized that Robert might believe that she was acting from mercenary motives.

Well, she had to do this thing. It was only fair to her uncle and aunt. She did not care so much about her duty to Aunt Cynthia, for Barbara did not love her deeply. But she loved her uncle. He had done everything for her, and wanted her to become the wife of John Brandon.

She drew in her breath sharply. She had no right to ponder on this subject now. She was engaged,—and to a man whom she respected and liked.

Lately she had grown very fond of John,—as she became better acquainted with him as he really was. Surely the calm, trustful kind of affection she had for him was safer and better than the wild devotion she had felt for Robert during the twenty-four hours that he had been in Summerfield.

Those twenty-four [illegible] of ecstasy [illegible] a perfect dream of bliss! Then she had waked up.

What Was Right

Well, after all, she had done what was right. She sat up with an unconscious gesture of dismissal—as if banishing the past from her mind.

"What does that mean?" John Brandon smiled down at her.

"Nothing—only I was remembering a disagreeable subject, and deciding to forget it.

"It is nice out here with you. Where are we going?"

"I thought perhaps you might like to go to the Country Club for tea," he answered. "It is rather warm for a long drive—and iced tea would taste good—don't you think so?"

"Yes, I do," she agreed. "It is a very muggy day—and dusty too."

"We are going to have rain tonight," John predicted. "It has held off long—but is on its way here now."

Although he did not say so, Barbara was certain that her betrothed welcomed an opportunity to appear in public with her.

At the club there would be a number of people taking afternoon tea and all would notice John Brandon and his companion. She was glad she had worn her new white dress, and a pretty white hat, lined with rose, that threw a becoming flush upon her face. She experienced, also, a thrill of pride because John's new car was one of the handsomest in town.

As the pair alighted from the automobile and crossed the lawn to a little table under the trees [illegible] terested glances followed them.

Barbara was but human. Although she did not love this man she enjoyed the temporary sense of importance that his presence and admiration brought to her.

Bachelor Girl's Reflections

By HELEN ROWLAND

EVE'S first complaint when she tasted the apple: "Great heavens! I've nothing to wear!"

Adam's first growl when he had finished the apple: "Great Scott! Is that all you've got to eat?"

Thus descendeth the honeymoon, today, yesterday, and forever!

A woman's love is never quite dead until the day on which she can sit down and reason logically with a man about it.

Some men are so credulous that they actually believe that a woman carries a pink parasol in order to keep off the sun, wears a one-piece bathing suit to swim in, and smiles because she is happy.

A man laughs when he thinks his wife amusing; a woman laughs when she thinks that her husband thinks he is amusing.

The woman who marries a lazy man may be pitied, the woman who marries a faithless man may find surcease from sorrow in divorce; but the woman who marries a man with a teasing sense of humor has nothing to look forward to for the rest of her life but the laughter of the gods.

Somehow, it's awfully hard for a girl to fall romantically in love with a man while he is carrying an umbrella and wearing overshoes.

Man was made from dust—but there are some mornings when his wife darkly suspects that the dust must have gotten a lot of gravel mixed in it.

When a man falls in love with a girl, he covers her with a rose-tinted isinglass, through which all her charms become radiant, and all her faults are softened and blurred.

A bad reputation, an undesirable husband, and a cheap umbrella are the hardest things in the world to lose.

I CAN'T seem to think of you that way. You know it's a different kind of love, ours. All I can think about it is the tremendous surprise—if it's true.

But I don't believe it is. You are lonely; you miss dad—miss me, perhaps. I think you do miss me, for the first time in your life. You see, I have rather a clear mind and memory, and I can't help remembering that when you were here you certainly could not have felt that way toward me, so how can you now? I did bore you sometimes.

Anyway, I adore you with all my heart, as you know. My affection hasn't changed one bit since I was a tiny girl and came into your room that day and saw you down on the floor unpacking your suit-case. I adored you instantly. I have not changed. Girls don't change.

Another letter from her some months later:

You're such a funny boy—just a boy, still, while in these six months I've overtaken and passed you in years. You won't believe it, but I have. Maturity has overtaken me. I am really a woman.

As to Friendship

Why are your letters vaguely reproachful? Have I done anything? Were you annoyed when I asked you whether you meant me to take them as love letters? You didn't write for a month after that. Did I scare you? You are funny!

I do really think you are in love—not with me, Jim—not with any other particular girl but just in love with love. Writers and artists and poets are inclined to that sort of thing, I fancy.

That's what worries me about myself. I am not inclined that way. I don't seem to be artistic enough in temperament to pay any attention to sentiment of that sort. I don't desire it, I don't miss it; it simply is not an item in the list of things that interest me. But of all things in the world, I do adore friendship.

I had an afternoon off from the hospital the other day—I'm still a probationer in a pink and white uniform, you know—and I went up to town and flew about the shops and lunched with a college friend, Helen Davis, at the Ritz and had a wonderful time.

And who do you suppose I ran into? Oswald Grismer! Jim, he certainly is the best-looking fellow—such red-gold hair—such fascinating golden eyes and coloring.

We chatted most amiably and he took us to tea, and then—I suppose it wasn't conventional—but we went to his studio with him, Helen Davis and I.

He is the cleverest man! He has done a delightful fountain and several portrait busts, and a beautiful tomb for the Lindsey family and his studies in wax and clay are wonderful.

He really seems very nice. And the life he leads is heavenly! Such a wonderful way to live—just a bedroom and the studio.

He's going to give a little tea for me next time I have an afternoon off, and I'm to meet a lot of delightful, unconventional people there—painters, writers, actors—people who have done things!—I'm sure it will be wonderful.

I have bought five pounds of plasticine and I'm going to model in it in my room every time I have a few moments to myself. But oh, it does smell abominably, and it ruins your finger nails.

Recurred Frequently

After that, Oswald Grismer's name recurred frequently in her letters. Cleland recognized also the names of several old schoolmates of his as figuring at various unconventional ceremonies in Grismer's studio—Harry Belter, now a caricaturist on the New York Morning Star; Badger Spink, drawing for the illustrated papers; Clarence Verne, who painted pretty girls for the covers of popular magazines, and his one-time master, Phil Grayson, writer for the better-class periodicals.

It's delightful, she wrote; we sometimes have music—often celebrated people from the Metropolitan Opera drop in—and you meet everybody of consequence you ever heard of outside the Social Register—people famous in their professions—and it is exciting and inspiring and fills me with enthusiasm and desire to amount to something.

Of course there are all kinds, Jim, but I'm old enough and experienced enough to know how to take care of myself. Intellectuals are, of course, broad, liberal and impatient of petty conventions, they live for their professions, regardless of orthodox opinion, oblivious of narrow-minded Philistines.

The main idea is to be tolerant. That is the greatest thing in the world, tolerance. I may not care to smoke cigarettes myself or drink cocktails and highballs, but if another girl does it it's none of my business. That is the foundation of other people's opinions and behavior. That is democracy!

Doesn't Like Nursing

As for the futurists and symbolists of various schools, I am not narrow enough, I hope, to ridicule them or deny them the right to self-expression, but I am not in sympathy with them. However, it is most interesting to listen to their views.

Well, these delightful treats are rare events in my horridly busy life. I'm in the infirmary and the hospital almost all the time; I'm always on duty or studying or attending lectures and clinics. I don't faint any more. And the poor little sufferers fill my heart with sympathy. I do love children—even defective ones. It makes me furious that there should be any. We must regulate this some day. And regulate birth control, too.

It is interesting; I am rather glad that I shall have had this experience. As a graduate nurse, some day, I shall add immensely to my own self-respect and self-confidence. But I should never pursue the profession further, never study medicine; never desire to become a professional physician. The minute I graduate I shall rent a studio and start in to find out what most properly shall be my vehicle for self-expression.

A New Film Drama With Marion Davies

La-may Face Powder is Guaranteed Pure and Harmless.

Pure face powder cannot injure the most delicate baby skin. The trouble is, too many powders are made in the old-fashioned way, with rice powder. Rice powder is starchy, and, like bread flour, it is quickly turned into a gluey paste by the moisture of the skin. This paste clogs the cuticle, swells in the pores, causing enlarged pores, blackheads and pimples. A specialist makes a harmless powder by using an ingredient doctors prescribe to heal the skin. Every time you apply this improved powder you give your complexion a real beauty treatment. There is a thousand dollar guarantee of purity printed on the box, certifying it does not contain white lead, rice powder or any harmful substance. This guaranteed pure powder is called La-may (French, Poudre L'Ame). Because it is pure and harmless La-may is now used by over a million American women. It is now the most popular complexion powder sold in New York. Women who have used even the most expensive face powders say they can not buy a better powder than La-may anywhere at any price. There is also a La-may Talcum that prevents the souring of perspiration.

Honest Advertising.

THIS is a topic we all hear now-a-days because so many people are inclined to exaggerate. Yet has any physician told you that we claimed unreasonable remedial properties for Fletcher's Castoria? Just ask them. We won't answer it ourselves, we know what the answer will be.

That it has all the virtues to-day that was claimed for it in its early days is to be found in its increased use, the recommendation by prominent physicians, and our assurance that its standard will be maintained.

Imitations are to be found in some stores and only because of the Castoria that Mr. Fletcher created. But it is not the genuine Castoria that Mr. Fletcher Honestly advertised, Honestly placed before the public and from which he Honestly expects to receive his reward.

Special Care of Baby.

That Baby should have a bed of its own all are agreed. Yet it is more reasonable for an infant to sleep with grown-ups than to use a man's medicine in an attempt to regulate the delicate organism of that same infant. Either practice is to be shunned. Neither would be tolerated by specialists in children's diseases.

Your Physician will tell you that Baby's medicine must be prepared with even greater care than Baby's food.

A Baby's stomach when in good health is too often disarranged by improper food. Could you for a moment, then, think of giving to your ailing child anything but a medicine especially prepared for Infants and Children? Don't be deceived.

Make a mental note of this:—It is important, Mothers, that you should remember that to function well, the digestive organs of your Baby must receive special care. No Baby is so abnormal that the desired results may be had from the use of medicines primarily prepared for grown-ups.

COX PREPARES SURPRISE

Withholds Part of Speech of Acceptance Until Day of Notification

By Universal Service.

Dayton, O., July 29.—Persistent rumors that Governor James H. Cox, Democratic presidential nominee, will spring a surprise upon his auditors in his formal speech of acceptance to be delivered at the county fair grounds here August 7, were apparently given some foundation when the Governor announced that one section of his address will be withheld from the press until the morning of August 7, instead of being mailed in advance to newspapers throughout the country with the remainder of the speech.

Early yesterday morning the Governor started dictating his speech to stenographers, and made such progress that he hopes to finish the first draft by tonight, or tomorrow at the latest.

Governor Cox has received a second telegram from Parley P. Christensen, Farmer-Labor nominee for the presidency, saying he intends to use every possible effort to secure the release from prison of Eugene V. Debs. Governor Cox probably will not reply to Christensen until after the notification ceremonies. It is understood that he will decline to make any representations to President Wilson for the release of Debs.

Plans for the "home-coming celebration" to Governor Cox tomorrow were practically complete today. The famous "Rain Bow Division band," now stationed at Columbus, and the Meteor band of Piqua, Ohio, which played the Cox boosters to victory at the San Francisco convention will participate in the huge parade of from 10,000 to 15,000 which will be reviewed by the Goveror.

Work also went forward on the physical transformation of Montgomery County Fair grounds to accommodate the hughe crowd expected. It was announced that amplifiers will be installed which will enable the Governor's address to be heard by at least 10,000.

GREAT NEGRO EXODUS SEEN IN GEORGIA CENSUS

Albany, Ga., July 29.—The seriousness of the negro migration from South Georgia is beginning to be visualized here as the returns from the 1920 census are published. Figures on Quitman and Clay counties show the former has lost more than 25 per cent. of its population in ten years and the latter 15 per cent. It is known that no serious emigration of the white population has occurred in the last decade, and the only explanation is found in negroes leaving in large numbers.

GASTON RETIRES AS CANDIDATE

Only Three Now in Field for Democratic Nomination for Governor

Colonel William A. Gaston has retired from the field as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor. This leaves three men still in the fight—Richard H. Long of Framingham, William F. Fitzgerald and Senator John Jackson Walsh.

In his letter Colonel Gaston declares against the system of direct nominations and favors a return to the old plan of convention nominations.

Failing to secure a satisfactory candidate for the nomination of Lieutenant - Governor, Michael A. O'Leary, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, has put in circulation papers nominating himself for that office.

WISCONSIN GIRL STUDENT READS MIND BY TOUCH

Madison, Wis., July 29.—A young woman with the uncanny power of telling people's thoughts has been discovered by H. C. Sharp, professor of psychology at the University of Wisconsin. Miss Marion Hill, a senior, performs this seemingly impossible feat by placing her hand on a person's pulse.

In order to dispel any doubts as to the girl's ability to actually do what is claimed for her, experiments have been conducted in the classroom by Professor Sharp. The tests have been largely attended.

Miss Hill's gift is explained by Professor Sharp with the statement that every thought produces muscular reaction, almost imperceptible, but which can be detected by a superlatively sensitive sense of touch.

SHE WAS LIGHT DRINKER, AND SO WAS THE JUDGE

Portsmouth, Eng., July 29.—Charged with drunkenness a woman denied the soft impeachment.

She told the magistrate she had only had two pints of beer, a glass of bitter, two double whiskies, a bottle of Bass and a bottle of ale.

ABOUT OUR GOOD FRIEND

Ballou

Copyright, 1920, by The Ledger Syndicate

BALLOU

VARIATIONS — Boileau, Drinkwater.

RACIAL ORIGIN—Norman-French, French and Anglo-Saxon.

SOURCE—A nickname.

THE family names of Ballou, Boileau and Drinkwater belong to that very large group of surnames which is hardest of all for us of modern times to comprehend. They have developed from nicknames

They are harder to understand because apparently there did not exist the same conditions in respect to them that, for instance, made the surnames of occupation so easily transferable from father to son, and also because so often they were downright insulting, denoting variously a reprehensible trait of character, a physical deformity, or even calling attention to illegitimacy of birth.

To comprehend them you must realize that the period in which surnames crystallized was an age unmarked by the veneer of culture and refinement with which our own primitive instincts are covered. It was an age of swashbucklers, an age when men for the most part were untamed and overgrown boys. Nicknames stuck to them as our own schoolboy nicknames (often quite crude) stick to us when we meet our old classmates years after. They were names in which the literal meaning was quickly lost in the personal designation. Thus we run across such names in the old records, used in all seriousness, as "Robert le Sot," "Geoffrey Drinkedregges" and "Maurice Drinkewater"; which last probably was as "insulting" to a hardy medieval Englishman as the other two.

Ballou is simply the descendant of the Norman-French for Drinkwater, and Boileau is a more modern French form.

The first Ballou in America, concerning whom much is known, was a "co-proprietor" with Roger Williams, in the "Providence Plantations." His name first appears on the records in 1646. Tradition, wrongly, has it that the Ballous were of Huguenot extraction. More probably, as the records seem to point out, they are descended from a Norman chief, who, with William the Conqueror, invaded Britain in 1066 The Ballous were, from the earliest, for religious freedom; they fought for it, and underwent severe privations for it.

Maturin Ballou, the first in America, signed the famous "Agreement," for the governing of the colony. The early Ballous were middle class citizens; their descendants attained to positions of honor and dignity, in the communities where they lived.

Tomorrow—Magee.

Secret of Energy These "Dog Days"

Eliminate poisons and congestion from stomach and bowels with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin

THERE is no time of the year when people should be more careful of their diet than during the hot summer months, but unfortunately it is the season of greatest carelessness. Cold foods, ices, unripe and overripe fruits are soon followed by cramps, heartburn, indigestion, constipation.

Do not wait until you have a splitting headache, but when you find yourself getting bilious and constipated, that very night take a teaspoonful of Egyptian Senna and Pepsin, which is sold in drug stores under the name of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. By morning your bowels will be relieved and the congestion gone. Then be cautious at meal time for a few days and you will have no further trouble.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a combination of simple laxative herbs with pepsin that has grown in great public favor for thirty years. We know of many thousands of households that are never without a bottle. Mr. Eugene McManus of Manayunk, Pa., was very dyspeptic until he patronized his druggist for a bottle of Syrup Pepsin, and now he can retain and digest whatever he eats; he is sleeping sounder, gaining in weight and strength and is in all respects feeling better than in years.

Just get yourself a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at a drug store and see the great good it will do you.

MONEY IS HARD TO OBTAIN

American Sugar Yields Nearly Three Points and U. S. Steel Breaks Again

By BROADAN WALL.
Registered U. S. Patent Office.

New York, July 29.—Stocks were highly irregular yesterday and closed unsettled. The opening was strong, with advances. Then came a sudden sinking spell in which U. S. Steel broke more than a point, selling within a quarter of the low figure of Tuesday.

Replogle broke 1½ points carrying Vanadium down half that much and Mexican Petroleum and Pan-American yielded. General Motors remained strong. After this break there was another recovery, which continued to the close with some irregularity due to profit taking and liquidation.

Money was at 8 per cent officially, but as a matter of fact funds were hard to get at any price.

The Red menace had as much to do with the market as the money situation for Wall street is beginning to take Europe very seriously. American manufacturers have developed a good deal of business with Poland, for instance, and further trouble there will make it impossible to complete the deals.

Besides there has been heavy investment by Americans in German properties and if Germany turns Bolshevistic these investments may be lost. There has also been heavy speculation in German bonds and German money all of which will be influenced by the developments of the near future.

Rails as a class were steady, there being no instance of a special weakness. The most that happened to Reading was a decline of 1½ points with the whole market weak. It closed near the bottom, but with only a small net loss.

American Sugar yielded nearly 3 points, being weaker than for many days. Beet sugar and Cuban cane sugar were steady.

No Farm Labor Shortage

While it is said that a farm labor shortage no longer exists, farmers are complaining that help is inexperienced and wants high wages. President Howard of the American Farm Bureau said at Washington: "Farmers are but temporarily relieved, as the high wages offered for harvest hands brought transient workers, who were paid from $6 to $9 a day and are given their board. This makes harvesting expensive."

Cotton Market Opening

New York, July 29.—Influenced by a bearish unofficial report on the condition of the crop, low cables from Liverpool, a break in foreign exchange market and favorable weather, selling of cotton was resumed today, causing a decline of 7 to 32 points at the opening. There was a good demand from spot concerns and some of the Southern warehouses and after the opening prices ruled fairly steady. Morning prices were: October, 32.40; December, 31.20; January 30.30; March, 30.07; May 29.55.

OIL AND STEEL ISSUES UP

Gains Are General in Second Hour; Motors Figure in the Advance

By W. H. ROSS,
Financial Editor.

Stocks were strong in New York at noon, but below the highest level of the forenoon. Steels, oils and motors participated in the advance. Reading was a strong and active rail, and most carriers were firm. Trading was of a little less volume, first hour transactions totalling about 160,000 shares. Call loans renewed at 8 per cent. Demand sterling was lower, opening at $3.74¼.

Among strongest issues during the morning were Bosch, Magneto, American Locomotive, Baldwin, Mexican Petroleum, Pan American, Replogle, U. S. Steel, Studebaker and International Paper. They were up from one to nearly three points at their highest. Goodrich was off more than two points.

MARKET OPENS IRREGULAR.

The price movement was irregular when the market opened, but the tendency was upward and within a few minutes gains predominated. But there was immediate profit-taking on the part of room traders and the advance did not go far. Mexican Petroleum advanced more than a point at the opening and Pan-American rallied quickly after starting a shade lower. They were active and led the oils. Net profits for the four months ended by April for Mexican Petroleum amounted to $2,112,565 after charges and taxes, while Pan-American profits for the period were $3,476,456. The market was not quite so active at the start as on previous sessions this week and fluctuations averaged small. Equipments were strong and rails and steels ruled higher, but Crucible was weak among the latter. General Motors and Studebaker were the only motors to show first hour activity. Chandler was the weakest. Liberty Bonds were a little lower.

NO CHANGE IN SENTIMENT.

Sentiment was unchanged in all quarters so far as can be discovered. The trading element is all professional and still bearish in view. Bankers are more concerned over business than stocks, and as far as "big interests" are concerned the market will continue to drift. Although the call rate dropped to 7 per cent. on Wednesday the decline did not signify any alteration in the situation. The credit strain is as great as ever. Wall street brokers' loans do not aggregate much if any more than $800,000,000. This means that there has been a billion dollars reduction within a year and that loans of this character total less than they did before the war. The funds that have been withdrawn have gone into commercial loans or where they will render the most service to the country. But business needs a great deal more money than it has been allotted and the prospect is that loans for speculation in securities will be contracted rather than expanded.

TONE IMPROVES IN BOSTON

But the Local Market Is Dull and Narrow During the Morning; Curb Is Quiet

The Boston market was irregular at the opening and had a rather weak tone, but it improved during the first hour and before the end of the morning the majority of stocks were showing gains. Most of the changes were small and trading was quiet. Coppers were firmer as a class, but inconspicuous as usual. Packing shares were dealt in to a very limited extent, while this was true also of auto accessory issues during the morning.

Among issues to recede a point or more were Boston & Maine, Quincy, Agricultural Chemical and Gray & Davis, while fractional losses were sustained by Carson Hill, Elder, Greenfield Tap and Waldorf.

Issues to make small gains included American Telephone, Ahmeek, Calumet & Arizona, East Butte, North Butte, New Cornelia, United Shoe, Island Creek, Swift & Co., Mexican Investment and Superior & Boston.

CURB DULL AT START.

The Curb market had a dull start and was weak on the whole at the opening. Active issues in the first hour were Arizona Tip Top, Eureka, Mutual and Madonna. Early gains were made by Arizona Silver, Boston and Montana, Mutual and Pilgrim, while among stocks to decline were Eureka, Jerome Verde, Madonna, Porcupine Premier, Chief and Albany Divide.

At the end of an hour Arizona Silver was up 2 cents at 17 cents and Boston & Montana, 2 cents at 66 cents. Losses included Tiptop, 1 cent at 9 cents, and Eureka, 1 cent at 29 cents.

BOSTON FINANCIAL NOTES.

Stockholders of the Shove Mills of Fall River have approved of the proposal to increase capital stock from $800,000 to $1,200,000 by paying a stock dividend of 50 per cent.

Gray & Davis stockholders will hold a special meeting on August 4 to vote on the agreement making the American Bosch Magneto Corporation the exclusive selling agent and the executive manager of the former company.

The American Trust Co. has become transfer agent for Ballardvale Pure Food, Inc., and for the R. T. French Co.

The Helvetia Copper Co. now has twelve producing wells, each averaging eight barrels of oil a day. Three more have begun or are nearing completion.

Newly chartered Massachusetts corporations include: J. W. Bowman & Co., Inc., of Boston, capital $150,000; Litchfield Linoplate Co. of Boston, capital $100,000; Whiting & Davis Co., of Plainville, capital $100,000.

It is stated that the Gardner Motor Co. will open a New York agency soon and that a New England agency will have headquarters in Boston.

MORE WORK NEEDED, HAS ENOUGH MONEY

According to "an eminent banking authority" who talked in New York, this country has enough money but needs to do more work. He said:

"What we need is not more money. We have an abundance of it. What we need is more production. Stamping new money will not build a house, inflating the currency will not give us better railroad service, a larger supply of money will not dig coal out of the ground. They are things we need in this country and they are things Europe needs. If there is anything alarming in situation it is a lack of clear thinking.

"The banking power of the United States is now nine times as great as it was only thirty years ago, and three times as great as the total banking power of entire world only thirty years ago. Capital surplus, profits, circulation and profits of all banks are something over $45,000,000,000."

Railroad Payrolls

For 1919 the payrolls of railroads in this country aggregated the high record amount of $2,800,146,892, and they will be increased more than half a billion dollars by the recent increases authorized by the Labor Board. But out of the sum given for 1919, salaries of executives and other officers totalling $70,000,000 should be deducted in estimating the increase for this year. Officials were not included in the recent $600,000,000 award.

Chicago Grain Market

BOY BREAKS BOTH LEGS WHILE TURNING IN BED

Sullivan, Ind., July 29.—Leo Pinkston, fifteen, broke both legs while attempting to turn over in bed. The lad, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Pinkston, has been confined to his bed for more than three months with a malady affecting the bones of his legs. Physicians said his bones were brittle as chalk because of a lack of phosphorus. So, when Leo tired of one position and attempted to change, the legs snapped. The broken bones were set and the doctors are awaiting with interest to see if they will knit.

25 POUNDS OF MILK PER DAY BY THE COW

Scandia, Kan., July 29.—A full-blood Jersey, owned by the Rev. F. H. Smith, pastor of the Methodist Church here, is "some cow." Doubt it? Well, listen. The Jersey gives twenty-five pounds of milk per day, and at this rate of production she produces more than her own weight in milk every month.

More Demand for Copper

According to a New York dispatch of yesterday there is a little more demand for copper and export buying is fair. Transactions of the latter kind are said to be for small amounts. One large producer is quoting 19¼ cents a pound for delivery in November and December, but others are reluctant to quote prices beyond October. For delivery from now to the end of September 19 cents is asked, while the October quotation is 19¼ cents. Prompt delivery metal is offered by outside interests at 18¾ cents.

Two big cargoes of raw sugar have reached Boston from Cuba this week. The second one amounted to 5,536,000 pounds and arrived yesterday on the steamship Lake Cayuga. It is consigned to the American Sugar Refining Co.

While the large stocks on hand and increasing receipts of Philippine and Java sugar cargoes have not resulted in the expected break in wholesale prices, experts state that a price break cannot long be averted.

CLAIM "MOONSHINE" WAS HARVESTED FROM WEEDS

Aurora, Ill., July 29.—Weeds, weeds, weeds—everywhere—fifty-three acres of it. It all belonged to Gabriel Oglay, a city farmer. Neighbors did not understand why Oglay cultivated the stuff until Federal operatives found jugs of "moonshine" planted here and there in it. The F. O.'s say they learned the "crop" was to be "harvested" at $— a quart. Oglay denies it, but he has been asked to explain to a Federal judge at Batavia.

MRS. ERD TAKEN ILL AT HEARING

Woman's Legion Plea for Headquarters in Charlestown Is Denied

Mrs. Daisy M. Erd, a Yeoman-F during the war and now commander of the New England Women's Post of the American Legion, was under a physician's care today at her home No. 109 Jersey street, Back Bay, following a collapse at a meeting of the state executive committee of the Legion in the State House where she pleaded that the women's post be allowed to establish headquarters in Charlestown.

It was said that her condition was not serious and resulted from the heat and overexertion in presenting the women's cause. After her collapse she was taken to the Haymarket Relief Station, where she responded to first-aid treatment. A few hours later she was taken to her home.

The petition of the women's post was denied by the committee. It has ruled twice previously that Charlestown shall have only one permanent post.

Evidence presented to the committee by Commander Charles H. Sullivan, of the Bunker Hill Legion Post, indicated that members of the Abraham Lincoln Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, not affiliated with the Legion, had been refused a charter by the executive committee on two previous occasions and through the assurance that they would turn over to Post No. 29 a building valued at $15,000, were attempting to obtain the Legion post charter they twice had been refused.

Wilfred Boudreau, the East Boston patrolman, who, it is alleged, recently used his pass key to gain an entrance to the Orient Heights Legion Post, where he arrested fourteen members for gambling on the Lord's Day, appeared before the committee in protest against his expulsion from the Legion ranks as requested by the Orient Heights Post.

It was agreed to postpone any action in the patrolman's case until an investigation was conducted by Thomas D. Lavelle, legal representative of the American Legion.

KILLS SELF AFTER MILK, PICKLE, BAY RUM SPREE

Wilmington, Del., July 29.—After a spree on bay rum, milk and pickles, Peter Grant, forty-six years old, a leather worker, was found asphyxiated in his home. His wife said she found the window tightly closed and a rug placed in front of one of the doors. She said he had been drinking heavily for several days.

"He had not been sober since last Saturday," said Mrs. Grant. "He began drinking bay rum at that time and drank three quarts. When I left him he was rather wild.

"He got up and drank a quart of milk and ate a dish of cucumber pickles I left on the table, and I think he went to the gas stove to make himself a cup of coffee. I don't know whether he tried to commit suicide or whether it was an accident."

BOY WHO STEPPED ON TRAILING ROPE MAY DIE

New York, July 29.—Francis Dixon, fourteen years old, is in a critical condition in the Post Graduate Hospital with concussion of the brain and possibly a fracture of the skull, received when he stepped on a rope which was trailing from a moving truck near his home. Detectives are seeking the driver who did not stop after the accident.

A number of persons saw Dixon thrown as he stepped on the rope. Screams of women attracted his father, who picked the boy up and ran four blocks to the hospital with him.

INVITED FIRST WIFE TO MAKE HOME WITH SECOND

Indianapolis, Ind., July 29.—He was never married to the "first wife," who is suing him for divorce, Ivan Hummel declared when brought here from Florida to answer a grand jury indictment charging bigamy. The "first Mrs. Hummel" in her suit for divorce filed here said that she and Hummel had two children. She charged that he became enamored of Miss Grace Huls, stenographer in Hummel's insurance office, married the girl and then invited her to make her home with his new wife.

ARMY RADIO MAN GETS PAY BY AIRPLANE

Washington, July 29.—The only man in the army paid off by aeroplane is Private Tankersley, wireless operator at Hester's ranch, ninety miles down the Rio Grande from El Paso, Texas.

Tankersley is attached to the One Hundred and Fourth Aero Squadron. To pay him it is necessary to send the payroll to the ranch by patrol plane, have it signed and returned. A few days later his pay is sent by the same means.

102, WOULD LIVE TO SEE PRESIDENT ELECTED

Geneseo, Kan., July 29.—The one great wish of Mrs. J. W. Porter of this place, who will be one hundred and two year old within a few months, is that she "live to see the election of the next President.

Should Mrs. Porter live this long, she will have seen the election of every Chief Executive of the United States from Madison to ——.

RAZOR UNDER PILLOW SAYS BARBER'S WIFE

Springfield, Ill., July 29.—Tactics used by J. F. Trent, barber, on the person of his wife, were not at all to her liking. In a bill for divorce she says he is cruel and lists these charges as proof. He held a lighted cigar to her bare arm, shot at her with a revolver but missed his aim, and has a habit of sleeping with a razor under his pillow. They have three children.

Woman Kills Coyote

Junction City, Kan., July 29. — To find herself confronted by a large coyote when one jumped over a rock fence near here was the experience of Mrs. Charles Harloff, wife of a Geary County farmer.

However, Mrs. Harloff proved herself equal to the occasion. She quickly unlimbered a small calibre revolver and brought the animal down with the first shot.

Wears Same Suit for 29 Years

Lawrence, July 29.—As far as August Spoher is concerned the mills can stay closed. He certainly will not encourage orders for worsted.

Spoher is a farmer of the Scotland Hill district of Haverhill and has not bought a suit of clothes for twenty-nine years, according to testimony offered in Probate Court here.

Judge Harry Dow and those present in the court room were unable to ascertain how well the suit had worn as it was covered up with a well patched suit of denim.

Spoher's wife was awarded $100 and the decree that her husband be compelled to pay her $5 as a separate maintenance. She claims it was August's own fault that he had been obliged to wear the same suit all these years as he had spent the farm profits in securing up-to-date farm machinery.

ESCAPES BULLET OF HOLDUP PAIR

South Boston Man Beats Off Assailants With Heavy Cane

Thomas Barry of No. 219 M street, South Boston, narrowly escaped being shot early today in a battle with two holdup men at M street and Marine road, when one of the men fired a shot at him after he had used his cane to beat off the would-be robbers.

Barry was on his way home down M street when his assailants jumped from behind and attacked him. He struck one of the men across the face with his stick. The sight of the cane apparently frightened them for they fled after one had fired a shot which went over Barry's shoulder.

The police of the City Point station today sent out the following description of the men: Both about twenty-two years old, five feet, eight inches, in height, wearing gray golf caps, and dark clothes.

BRITISH RESOLVE TO EAT LESS SUGAR BEATING COST

London, July 29.—Great Britain is resolved to eat less sugar in order to beat down the world price of that commodity. Believing that to buy furthur supplies, which would necessitate a retail price of one shilling per pound, would rob many children of sugar because parents could not afford to buy it, the Government has resolved to reduce the ration from eight to six ounces per person weekly. That will mean a national saving of 130,000 tons, which taken with reduced rations to jam and candy manufacturers will make a total saving of 500,000 tons less sugar consumed in 1920 than during any year of the war.

GETS ANSWER TO NOTE PUT IN RIVER 3 YEARS AGO

Belle Plaine, Kan., July 29.—A bottle containing a sheet of paper on which was written "Miss Alma Lane, Belle Plaine, Kan., August, 1916," was thrown into the Ninescah River here three and one-half years ago.

A few days ago Miss Lane received a letter from R. S. Baldwin, an engineer for the Puget Sound Light & Power Company, Seattle, Wash., saying he had found the bottle while boat riding on Washington Lake Canal, near Seattle.

$75,000 BOTTLES OF LORD KITCHENER BOUGHT HERE

New York, July 29.—M. Parish Watson, art dealer of this city confirmed a report from London that he had acquired the two famous pairs of "cryssanthemum bottles" given to the late Lord Kitchener by the Emperor of China in 1909. Watson purchased the rare objects from Lord Broome, Kitchener's heir, for $75,000.

The bottles, Watson said, were purchased recently. He said that he intended to add them to his own collection, and denied that he had acted as an agent in the transaction.

ARRIVAL OF STORK DELAYS FUNERAL

Denver, July 29. — The stork delayed the funeral here of Frank Ailes. Just as the cortege was about to start for the cemetery the bereaved widow was hurried from a funeral carriage into the Ailes home, where a baby girl was born.

SHOT, ROLL OF BILLS IN POCKET SAVES HIS LIFE

Huntington, W. Va., July 29.—A roll of money which he carried in his vest pocket saved the life of Walter Sliger, a wealthy Huntington lumberman, when a highwayman shot at him. The bullet, which would have punctured his heart, imbedded itself in the bills.

Barber's Roof Falls in, but He 'Carries On'

Detroit, July 29.—F. P. Loeffler, of Fore City, was gazing at the ceiling from a barber chair in the makeshift barber shop in the ruins of the burned International Hotel, Windsor, when he saw the ceiling moving toward him. He did not wait for his coat or hat, but departed hastily. With him went Edward Adair, proprietor of the shop, who was shaving him. The ruins had collapsed.

Once in the street Loeffler remembered his half-shaved condition and demanded that the shave be completed. He pointed out is now loking for the writer and the wreck.

"I won't shave anyone in there and have him hold up the ceiling with his feet while I do it," said Mr. Adair.

A compromise was effected whereby Loeffler, still draped in the barber's sheet, went to a nearby shoe shop and was shaved.

URGES 100 YEARS OF PUNISHMENT

Frenchman Would Have Burden of Indemnity Put on Future Germans

By International News Service.

Paris, July 29.—The suggestion that Germany's time limit for the payment of indemnity should be extended to a century so that future German generations would feel the punishment of war was made today by Jean Rey, noted French financial expert and economic writer.

"In the course of the discussions regarding the method of payment by Germany two most important points have been lost sight of," declared M. Rey.

"In the first place the term of years over which the payments are to be made should not be limited to 30, 40 or even 50 years. It should be 100 at least, so that the next generations of Germans would have to pay a share.

"In the case of an individual, responsibility for payment of an amount due is prolonged until his death, unless paid. Since a nation has an indefinite life, why should not a similar procedure be adopted?

"In the second place the payments for reparations should have absolute preference over all interest paid to the Germans by their government on war loans. Germany floated during the war about 200 billion marks war loans, or about 250 billion francs at the pre-war rate of exchange. These loans were almost entirely subscribed to at home. Why should not the allies force Germans who subscribed to these loans be content with, say, 1 per cent. during a period of twenty years, so that the German people can meet their reparations bill?

"When Germany has paid a large percentage of this bill the rate of interest for German holders of war bonds could be raised.

"Nothing would serve better to teach the present generation of Germans that the policy of imperialism which they upheld with such enthusiasm does not pay when you are beaten."

EX-SOLDIER AWAITS ARRIVAL OF OWN CORPSE

St. Louis, July 29.—After his father has repeatedly resisted attempts of the government to force the insurance money on him, Herman H. Phillips of Bardan, Ill., formerly of Company E, 166th Infantry, Rainbow Division, is now in the position of awaiting the arrival of his own body.

The body is coming in a government coffin direct from the cemetery at Chateau-Thierry, and Phillips is wondering what he will do with it. Phillips recently made a trip to Washington, but was unable to convince the officials he is not dead. The records show he is dead and the department stands on the records.

MOTHER SUFFOCATES HER SECOND BABY IN SLEEP

Bloomingdale, N. J., July 29.—Mrs. Frank Stagg, of this place, woke to find her ten-days'-old baby dead in her arms. Her physician, Dr. Thomas B. Miller, said Mrs. Stagg probably held her infant too close to her breast while she slept and it had died of suffocation several hours before she awoke.

Dr. Miller added that two years ago another infant of Mrs. Stagg's of the same age was accidentally suffocated while it slept with its mother. Mrs. Stagg was so distracted she has been continually under the care of a physician.

ARREST MAKES OMELET OF PEDDLER'S PRISONER

Newark, N. J., July 29.—Jake Diamond detected two boys stealing eggs from his peddler's wagon in Central Market. He shouted and the boys fled with Diamond, a traffic policeman and several pedestrians in pursuit. "Grab 'em by the neck," shouted Diamond. "Don't break the eggs!"

One of the boys escaped. Diamond closed with the other, and to save himself on the uneven pavement, grabbed the boy round the waist. The lad, looking like a cross between a Welsh rarebit and a Swiss sunset, was discharged with a warning in court.

TOBACCO CURE FILLED WITH NITRATE OF SILVER

Kane, Pa., July 29.—A stranger canvassed Kane selling a concoction "guaranteed to absolutely cure the tobacco habit." After he had been ordered away by the police the stuff was analyzed by a chemist and it was shown that it contained enough nitrate of silver to "eat the throat out of any man" who followed the directions.

MOTHER OF 6 HANGS HERSELF FROM TREE

SEIZED CORN WHISKEY CONTINUES GROWING

Toledo, July 29.—Corn whiskey that automatically multiplies itself without loss of its original strength is being held as evidence in the case of two Hungarians, Nicholas Evanoff and Colom Koloff, held by the police. When the men were arrested two one-gallon jugs and a quart bottle filled with the liquor were taken and placed in the police storeroom.

The custodian found later that the bottle had burst, that the corks had blown from the jugs and the liquor was bubbling over the top. The overflow now amounts to two additional gallons.

Sir Thomas Lipton—Fighter

Congratulations on your Celtic courage and perennial persistency. Ninety per cent. of the people wish that you were taking back the cup for which you have fought so long and so well.

Come often; this country will always be glad to see you.

You are as young as you look, twenty-one, and have plenty of time and energy ahead of you.

Bring back next time a ship to fly in the air, giving us fair notice, and we shall be glad to race you.

Or bring back a submarine Shamrock to race below the water, and we shall race you there.

In the line of yacht racing you have done what is far more important than the winning of a victory; you have DESERVED a victory.

You are not taking back the cup that you came to get, and this country regrets it. We had to try to beat you, we are sorry to have done it.

You are taking back the friendship and affection of a hundred million human beings that like to see a man remain a fighter, as you have done, in spite of the years, just as your country, Ireland, is still a fighter in spite of many centuries.

Good-bye, good luck; come back soon.

Cox Should Meet Harding's Challenge Regarding Article X.

How do you stand on Article X., Governor Cox? Are you for adding American chains to British chains on the necks of Ireland, India, Egypt and Persia, and to Japanese chains on the necks of the twenty million Christians in Korea and the forty million Chinese in Shantung?

Senator Harding, Republican nominee for President, challenges Governor Cox, the Democratic nominee for President, to state his position on Article X. of the League of Nations.

This challenge was issued in consequence of Governor Cox's pilgrimage to the shrine of President Wilson and of his humble confession of faith to the great Democratic autocrat.

It is Article X. which President Wilson has proclaimed to be the very heart of the League, to tamper with which would be to destroy the League. Now Governor Cox, after his pilgrimage, publicly announces that the President and he are en rapport on the League of Nations and on all other subjects. The President graciously confirms Governor Cox's declaration.

That Article X. is the heart of the League does not need the statement of the President to make it clear. The very terms show that it is the most portentous, dangerous and onerous provision in the whole League covenant, bad as are the other provisions. The great struggle over the League in the Senate centred around Article X., and it was on account of Article X. and the President's obstinate refusal to consent to its amendment that the progressive Democratic Senators and all the Republicans in the Senate united to reject the League.

We think that Senator Harding's challenge to Governor Cox is fair. He ought to meet the challenge. He ought to answer it promptly, clearly, explicitly.

Consider the present situation: England and France sicked Poland on to Russia without the slightest excuse and with a heartless disregard of the probable consequences to the poor little Polish gamecock. Russia forbore not one provocation, but a dozen provocations, to strike back at Poland. She even allowed, with mere verbal protest, the Poles to occupy her Russian territory to a depth of 200 miles without striking a blow. It was not until this magnanimous patience and forbearance was misunderstood by the Poles to be fear or helplessness—a misunderstanding which led to an ultimatum by Poland to Russia more outrageous and intolerant than the Austrian ultimatum to Serbia which started the war—that the Russians prepared to defend themselves.

But Russia, with one heave of her great thews, has thrown the Poles out of the Russian territory and broken their army into pieces. Advancing rapidly, the Russian troops stand within ten miles of the German frontier and within a half day's march of Warsaw, with no resistance worthy of the name capable of being offered them.

Now, France and England tell Russia that she must not cross the Polish frontier because, forsooth, Article X. of the League of Nations guarantees the territoral integrity of the members of the League.

But Article X. did not guarantee the territorial integrity of Russia against Poland, a member of the League. And when we are speaking of the human lives involved in these reckless wars it is blasphemous to talk about a League of Nations promoting peace which permits one of its members to invade another and then undertakes to prevent that other nation from retaliating in order to end the war and punish the guilty aggressor. What can incite nations to war so much as to guarantee them from the consequences of defeat?

We venture the assertion that if Great Britain and France were sure of American participation in the present situation, their conduct toward Russia would be so insolent and intolerable that war would be inevitable. But with Egypt and India disaffected, with civil war in Ireland, with the Turks up in arms and the Russians driving the British out of the oil fields of the Caucasus, the British have their hands full, and France is finding herself well occupied in digesting her spoils in the Arabian country, where the Arabs who helped to win the war are now in arms against the French.

So England and France are likely to treat the Russians with some degree of decency and to accept the Polish defeat and take its consequences.

But suppose the war with Russia should begin and the Germans, whose contact with the Russians has now been established, should join them, the result, if America stayed out, would be by no means certain. In all probabilities, France and Great Britain would be defeated in the end, and that defeat would lead immediately to the freedom of Ireland, Egypt, India and Persia and Arabia.

And thus it is that Article X. will involve us in indeterminable war almost always on the side of the oppressor to help him keep his ill-gotten gains.

Senator Harding wants to know how you stand on Article X. of the League covenant, Governor Cox. So do the American people.

More Truth Than Poetry

The Modern Love Affair

By S. E. KISER

"NOW I'll begin," said Mary Jane,
"To set my thoughts down in a diary;
My temper, if I may explain,
At times becomes a little fiery.
I'll look the poets up—or those
Who have recorded their emotions;
I may have use for them—who knows?—
When some one ceases his devotions.

"I'LL make the pages burn with stuff
About my hopes and expectations,
And any man who treats me rough
May some day have some sad sensations;
No thought shall be so intimate
That I'll deny it full expression;
I'll spill it all, from love to hate—
A candid and a clear confession.

"ONE never knows how Fate may plan
To bring one, some day, to distraction;
I, too, may meet a married man,
Deceptive both in word and action.
It's well, you know, to be prepared
For any course that must be taken
When one too recklessly has dared
And then is finally forsaken.

"SO I'll proceed at once to write
About things that grieve or gladden me,
And woe to him who, making light
Of my too eager trust, shall madden me!
I'll quote the poets, great and small,
Who have defined the tender passion;
From love to hate, I'll spill it all,
For that appears to be the fashion."

Get Angry, It's Good for You

GET mad!" Not so long since, scientists were telling us that we should never get angry—that it steeped poisons in the system and was very bad for us physically as well as mentally and morally—not to speak of the general unpleasantness we shed about when "beside ourselves." Here is a new version of the matter—science reversing its old opinion.

Get angry, advises Roy Franklin Richardson, professor of education at the University of Maine; it's good for you. It's good for nations to get angry, too—providing always that it's a "righteous anger."

This novel viewpoint is advanced in an able article in the magazine section of next Sunday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The next war in England, according to social predictions, is to be a tug-of-war for the Prince of Wales' heart. It is popularly believed that the young heir to the throne is attached to the lovely Princess Yolanda, the King of Italy's daughter; but this marriage would be unpopular in England. The Queen Mother, who has a little way of getting what she wants, is said to favor Lady Rachael Cavendish, charming and athletic daughter of the Duke of Cavendish, Governor General of Canada. And there are others "honorably mentioned"—notably Miss Margaret Calhoun Simonds of Washington and Miss Ines Wilson of Montreal. Who will win?

The French Senate is gravely alarmed at Parisian wickedness. In a recent debate many of the French lawmakers declared that shameless plays were causing widespread social corruption and threatening the downfall of France! Discussed Sunday.

More of the great Hope diamond mystery. Next Sunday May Yohe (Lady Francis Hope) tells how the great blue stone brought about the downfall of the Viscount Fouquet, Minister of Finance for Louis XIV., who died a miserable death in delaying universal suffrage.

DON'T MARRY MERELY TO NAG THE MAN

By Winifred Black

A JUDGE of the Superior Court of California said some rather interesting things in a divorce suit in Los Angeles the other day.

He told opposing counsel just exactly how far a wife may go in scrutinizing her husband's affairs and still not give him a cause for divorce.

She may follow her husband, even if she is living apart from him. She may engage private detectives to follow him, and she may claim a portion of his property as her own.

But—

She may not open his mail. She must keep out of his office. And if she is separated from him she cannot visit his home while he is absent from it.

What an interesting little set of rules—I am glad I don't have to remember the ins and outs of them, aren't you?

Wouldn't you love to follow your husband when he was trying to get away from you?

Wouldn't you love to engage private detectives to follow him, so they could bring you nice stories about his goings on and give you a chance to have a good cry, or so they could go to him and tell him you had hired them and get him to pay them a good, round sum to tell you he went to prayer meeting when you thought he was somewhere not at all like the same place?

Strange, Isn't It?

Wouldn't you hate to have any judge in the world tell you that you couldn't open another person's letters and snoop and pry into another human being's affairs?

Wouldn't it be nice to have a judge tell you that you had no right to hang around your husband's office and make yourself a laughing stock and have every clerk and office boy in the place grinning and nudging each other whenever you appeared?

Wouldn't it be fine to be the sort of woman who had to have a judge tell her to keep away from the place where her husband was living—if he wasn't living with her?

What strange things laws are—but they are not nearly so strange as the people who make such laws necessary.

Imagine a woman who would separate from her husband and then keep right on nagging him and following him and spying upon him and making herself miserable over him, just as if she hadn't got rid of him at all.

It seems to me that some women marry just to have some one to nag, and some men appear to marry a woman just to have some one to boss, and they can't give up the habit even when they have separated.

A Pitiful Mess

Opening letters, spying, following, listening to all kinds of gossip—if I had a husband that I couldn't trust I'd get rid of him and say "Thanks be!" every time I recalled that he was gone.

If I had a husband that I could trust, I'd trust him and be happy.

Letters, detectives, office boys, telephone conversations, dictagraphs—what a sordid, pitiful, hideous mess it all is!

Heaven send that no one I love will ever have to be dragged into such a miserable affair.

MILKY WAY IN CLOSEUP ON NEW GLASS

By Edgar Lucien Larkin,

Director of Mt. Lowe Observatory.

ONCE more I have been face to face with an enigma so utterly beyond all hope I may have of discovering a trace of a clew leading to its solution that, in chagrin, discomfiture and dismay, I have again given up trying.

I have lately returned from the fourth annual session of the Pacific Division of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, held in Seattle. The subjects treated in the departments of astronomy, pure mathematics, electricity, radio-activity, spectroscopy and celestial photography, together with chemistry and physics in general, were ably handled by experts. The science elaborated was exceedingly modern.

I could attend only two of the branch meetings, Mathematics and Astronomy. These were filled with discoveries made in cosmical physics and chemistry since the meeting in Pasadena in June, 1919. The discoveries made in one short year equal perhaps those made in a century after modern science began in the fifteenth century.

Upon the invitation of J. S. Plaskett the astronomers took ship across Puget Sound to the new Grand Dominion Astrophysical Observatory near Victoria, B. C. Here the supreme genius of John A. Brashear was on full display, for his masterpiece, the 72-inch mirror telescope, stood on the massive pier. It is a parabolic photographic mirror and is perfect to within the excessively minute limits of one-twentieth the wave length of violet light. It is photographing the invisible night after night.

In this observatory on a mountain peak, rising above a wilderness of trees that surround the city of Victoria, papers were read of a high order on orbits, motions and spectra of binary suns. Spectroscopic determination of velocities of approach and recession of suns in space, and summary of parallax determinations by this recondite method were read.

The distances of some binary suns from our solar system can be found by means of a telespectroscope without going through the work of discovering parallaxes in the old mathematical way. Also the speeds of flying suns if in a straight line toward and from the earth.

These two discoveries are as marvellous as any ever made by human mind, and the work is as refined as any made by human hands. Then when darkness finally came on after the long Canadian evening of light so near the Summer solstice, we all went to the huge dome, where Astronomer J. S. Plaskett turned the huge mirror full upon the double sun Epsilon Bootis, and later upon the colossal cluster of perhaps more than 50,000 suns making up the famous cluster in the constellation Hercules.

At the time of impressive ceremonies at the dedication of the 100-inch mirror on Mount Wilson, in the presence of the astronomers attending the Pasadena meeting in 1919, we all saw this cluster. The difference could scarcely be observed by the judgment based on eye observation. We saw more minute stellar images in the 100-inch than in the 72-inch, but this amounts to little, mere seeing. It is stellar photography that counts. For the 100-inch brings almost invisible points, images of inconceivably remote suns, to a focus on rapid plates.

From the south windows of the Lowe Observatory in Southern California when Summer nights come on apace, and stars stand out in space one by one, and when full darkness comes on, then Urania, the majestic goddess of the night, hangs up sidereal sheets, a cloth of suns, drapery and robes, precious garments, and drags the very hem in the Southern Sea by rotation of the earth. And the same panorama of Southern California and the Pacific Ocean is visible from the south door of the Wilson Observatory.

But the starry hosts as seen from the Dominion Observatory hang over mighty expanses of forests. The Milky Way rises out of thousands of square miles of trees and pours into more thousands at sunset. The healing balsams of the vast Canadian forests, very balm of Gilead, could be detected by their fragrant odor, during our automobile ride from Observatory peak to the midnight steamer.
